SIKESTON STANDARD

Southeast Missouri's Leading Semi-Weekly

VOLUME 23 — SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 23, 1934 — NUMBER 16

THE EDITOR SAYS—

While the next National and State elections are some months off it is high time to look forward for leaders to carry on the work begun by our President and Governor. If President Roosevelt lives, no other name will be submitted to the National Democratic Convention when it convenes, as he is foremost in the hearts of his countrymen. In State affairs no man stands higher in the estimation of our people than does Dwight H. Brown, Secretary of State, and The Standard takes pleasure in placing his name before the people as a worthy successor to Governor Park. Dwight Brown was born at Benton, in Scott County, is a native of Southeast Misouri, brought up in a newspaper office as carrier boy, reporter, editor and publisher. Coming in contact with his fellowman in these positions has given him an inner view of human nature that has broadened his mind and made him sympathetic. No man in the State stands higher with the newspaper fraternity of every political belief than does Brown. He was an honored president of the Missouri Press Association, of the Southeast Missouri Press Association, President of the Ozark Chamber of Commerce, served his Sensational District at Jefferson City with credit, was a member of the State Board of Pardon and Paroles, is now President of the State Chamber of Commerce and is now Secretary of State. No man in the State is better fitted from experience than Dwight Brown. Along with his other qualifications he is a Democrat of the 100 percent variety, is a splendid speaker, posseses a fine sense of humor, plenty of common sense and is a polished gentleman.

A visit with Secretary Green of the State Fair, at St. Louis last week, brought some nice compliments for Mrs. Moore Greer of Sikeston who was hostess at the State Building on the Fair Ground last year. If all are living it was our understanding that Mrs. Greer and her maid of Sikeston will be in charge at the 1935 State Fair.

At the press meeting last week C. L., Jr., paid special attention to the program while C. L., Sr., spent most of his time in the lobby slinging the bull. From every section north of the river editors were asking about the crops of Southeast Missouri and financial conditions, etc. It was here that we bragged on our corner of the state in a way that almost staggered our listeners, and we were perfectly sober. We told them no other section of the world could produce the various crops that come from the soil as were grown in Southeast Missouri. Cotton, corn, wheat, oats, rye, alfalfa, clover, lespideza, sorghum cane, pipestem cane, broom corn, sunflowers by the hundred acres, kaffir corn, persimmons, pawpaws, watermellons and canteloupes by the trainload, hickory nuts, walnuts, hazel nuts, wild cats, wild women, wild turkeys, quail, pheasants, deer, raccoon, opossums, frog legs by the bushel, snakes, lizzards and turtles. Then Sikeston has the only bank building erected in the United States during 1934 with nearly three million dollars deposited from five states, enough money to burn a wet hen, and easy to borrow provided you have sufficient security. Then our shoe factory, Scott County Mill and State Highway payrolls brings in outside money that makes times good in this community. No teling what we would have told them with a few drinks under our belt.

Many cities and towns in the state of Missouri have voted bonds to build light and power plants and from PWA funds, large sums have been added. In every single instance the corporation having a monopoly in these cities have obstructed and delayed the building of these plants. The same technique is used as was thrown in the path of progress in Sikeston. A suit to prevent the state auditor from registering the bonds, then a hearing before the Public Service Commision, the State Supreme Court, the shifting of the matter from one jurisdiction to the other, until parties of the first part die. We are afraid to express our opinions of the powers that pass on the ouster proceedings of the Missouri Utilities Co., for fear of being thrown in jail. The rights and wishes of the people should come before that of corporations.

Bailey Named to 28th Circuit Bar Committee

Members of 28 state bar committees who will have authority to hear complaints against lawyers and to file disbarment papers after investigations were appointed Tuesday by the Missouri Supreme Court. Every committee will have four members. One group was chosen in each of the state's 38 judicial circuits.

Ralph Bailey of Sikeston has been named a member for three years of the 28th circuit committee. Others are B. Hugh Smith of Cape Girardeau, chairman, appointed for one year; J. Grant Frye, also of Cape Girardean, chosen for two years; and Senator James C. McDowell, Charleston, appointed for four years.

Throughout the state, the new committee members, serving without pay will assume duties which heretofore have been voluntarily performed by grievance groups of state and county bar organizations. All committees will work under the general chairmanship of Boyle G. Clark of Columbia, formerly president of the Missouri Bar Association. Receipts from the annual $3 license fee recently imposed on attorneys practicing in the state will permit necessary work to be accomplished.

The purpose of this plan is to effect adequate control over attorneys who are guilty of unethical or unprofessional conduct and follows recommendations embodied in the report of a state-wide bar commission and the recent adoption of regulations which increased the standards for admission to the Missouri Bar.

In each of the 38 committees, one member was appointed for a year, a second for two years, a third for three, and the last for four.

The following committee members were appointed in other judicial circuits of Southeast Missouri.

38th: H. C. Riley, New Madrid, one year; Judge John E. Duncan, Hayti, two years; Sharon J. Pate, Caruthersville, three years; E. F. Sharp, New Madrid, chairman, four years.

33rd: Ed L. Abington, Poplar Bluff, one year; L. E. Tedrick, Poplar Bluff, two years; James F. Fullbright, Donophan, three years; L. M. Henson, Poplar Bluff, chairman, four years.

27th: J. P. Cayce, Farmington, chairman, one year; Samuel Bond, Perryvile, two years; Peter H. Huck, Ste. Genevieve, three years. R. H. Davis, Fredericktown, four years.

Homer Gilbert To Play at Lions Thanksgiving Dance

Homer Gilbert and members of his studio orchestra will play at the Thanksgiving night dance which the Lions club will sponsor to raise funds to aid the city's underprivileged children at Christmas time, according to announcements sent out today.

The dance, which will be held at the armory here from 9:30 until 1:30 o'clock on the evening of November 29. promises to be one of the most outstanding of the season since Mr. Gilbert's orchestra has been highly praised and since Sikeston residents will be able to celebrate Thanksgiving here.

Money from the dance will be added to the net profit received from the Lions club Halloween dance and placed in a fund established by members each year for the benefit of underprivileged children.

On Christmas day, 1933, Lions club members distributed a total of 120 chickens, 1500 toys, and 1500 sacks of candy and oranges to children who otherwise would have had inadequate Christmases. They are hoping to be able to donate a similar amount this year, but since the prices of commodities have risen greatly, they will require more money than ordinarily to fill their established quota.

The practice of presenting Christmas gifts to underprivileged children was begun by the Lions about 10 years ago. For several years they only sponsored the movement, obtaining funds for the purchase of gifts from Sikeston merchents.

Disapproving of that method, however, they inaugurated six years ago a policy of raising the funds by means of legitimate entertainment, securing necessary money only by giving to persons who indirectly contributed for the children's benefit a return equal to their donations. Since that time, money for the gifts has been obtained yearly from the net proceeds of two dances, at Hallowe'en and at Thanksgiving.

Admission to the Lions dance November 29, will be $1 for couples and 50 cents for spectators.

Troop 43 Scouts To Collect Toys

Members of Boy Scout Troop, 43 will begin next week a house-to-house campaign to collect broken and discarded toys, according to E. F. Schorle, director of activities of the troop, which is sponsored by the Lions club.

The toys, Mr. Schorle said, will be taken to a workshop in the basement of Harry Young's home, where they will be repaired and painted and otherwise made ready for distribution on Christmas day to Sikeston's underprivileged children.

All toys which are no longer used or which have been temporarily discarded because they were partly damaged will be collected and repaired by the Scouts in order that the Lions club policy of aiding needy children may be continued this year.

Persons who have toys which they will be glad to donate to the club are requested either to notify Mr. Schorle at his office, telephone 62, or his home, telephone 426, or have the toys gathered together so that Scouts may collect them next week.

Retailers Association Membership Campaign to Begin

A drive to secure 100 percent membership in Scott county in a branch organization of the Missouri Retailer's Association will be started this week by George Lough, the state association's chairman for the county, if the weather permits.

Mr. Lough, possibly with the aid of helpers, will visit every retail merchant in the county in an effort to sign each one as a member of the state organization.

A movement for such an organization, begun here early this fall, was endorsed by officers of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce at a regular meeting held on September 13.

The purpose of the state association, which was itself organized only recently, is to protect Missouri merchants by maintaining officials in Jefferson City who would closely watch proposed legislation that might easily harm business men.

At the Chamber meeting, when the movement was given approval Robert Lamkin of Cape Girardeau, who came here to speak at the session stated that there is a great need for the success of the Missouri Retailers' Association.

The matter which merchants are most vitally interested in now is the pending legislation pertaining to an increase in the state sales tax. Legslators are planning to introduce a bill providing for a two per cent sales tax. The tax is now one half of one per cent.

If they succeed in getting a two per cent tax passed, Mr. Lamkin said when he was here, numerous retailers will be forced to close their establishments since they wlil be unable to absorb the tax in their gross receipts and since, under the present terms of the state constitution, they will be unable to allow their customers to bear part of the increased burden.

Mrs. Beulah Howe and son Dewey, spent the week end visiting in Steele with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Howe. On Sunday Mrs. Howe and her son were honored guests at a dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Howe, at which twenty guests were present.

BANK HEAD REPORTS FARMERS REPAYING SHORT TERM LOANS

Repayments have already been received on omer than 90 percent of the short-term loans made this season to farmers in the Sixth Farm Credit District for the production of cotton and discounted by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis.

In this fact, Joseph R. Cosgrove, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, sees another indication of improved agricultural conditions among farmers of Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas, the three states comprising the Sixth District.

Mr. Cosgrove reports that the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank has discounted cotton loans for a total of $3,107,074, of which only $257,880 remains unpaid, with a large part of this sum not yet due.

The Federal Intermediate Bank does not make loans direct to farmers but discounts agricultural production paper for production credit associations, agricultural corporations, banks, and other primary lending agencies.

FIVE SHREDDERS BEING OPERATED IN COUNTY

Five corn shredders are now being operated in Scott county, according to A. E. Kies, district supervisor of the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction commission's project to provide feed for state farmers living in the areas most affected by the drouth last summer.

Six shredders are running in Mississippi county, three in Pemiscot, and eleven in Cape Girardeau, Mr. Kies said. Nine shredders are being operated in Perry county now, and three more are scheduled to begin work soon.

It is more easy to secure shredders in the northern counties of the district than in those of the extreme part, where preservation of corn fodder has not been attempted in the past.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS HAVE WEEK OF ACTIVITY

Several students and teachers of the Sikeston high school went to Cape Girardeau Wednseday evening to see the performance of Marc Connelly's Pulitzer prize-winning play, "The Green Pastures".

On Thursday afternoon a large delegation drove to Matthews to see the football game played there by the Matthews and Portageville elevens for the championship of New Madrid county, and this afternoon many of them will go again to Cape Girardeau to witness the Kirksville-Cape Girardeau teachers' game.

Tomorrow, several students and at least one teacher will go to the Southeast Missouri State Teachers' College to attend a one-day folk drama school.

KIRK MAY ATTEND 1909 CLASS REUNION AT M. U.

It is possible that George W. Kirk will go to Columbia next week to attend the reunion of the university's graduating class of 1909, of which he is a member.

If he does, his son, Charles Leonard Kirk, who is a student at the university, will help welcome him The younger Mr. Kirk is one of 12 sons and daughters of members of the class of 1909 who are now enrolled in the university.

On the evening preceding Thanksgiving day an informal reception for the class of 1909 will be held on the mezzanine floor of the Tiger hotel in Columbia. The class reunion will be held in Jesse hall at 10:30 o'clock on picture will be taken in front of Thanksgiving morning. A group the columns of Francsi quadrongle immediately after the reunion.

FARMER OF PEMISCOT DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID

Henry Alexander, 55-year-old farmer of Cottonwood Point was found dead Tuesday on a sandbar near his home. His body had apparently lain there since Saturday, when he disappeared.

Alexander had drunk carbolic acid, presumably because he was despondent and lonely. His body was discovered by Buddy Abbott, a small boy of Cottonwood Point, while he was on a fishing trip.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in Caruthersville. One married son survives.

LAST BUTTONS REMOVED FROM STREET CENTERS

On Tuesday the last of the iron center street buttons were removed from Sikeston's downtown streets and the holes left by their removal filled with concrete. The work of taking the buttons from the streets was begun soon after councilmen authorized the action at a meeting last month.

Harvey Johnson went to Oran on professional business Monday morning.

Ordinance Authorizing Fire Truck Purchase Approved

An ordinance authorizing the purchase of a new fire truck for $5225 cash was unanimously passed by city councilmen when they met for a special session Tuesday night.

The passage of the bill was in accordance with a provision of an committee which was passed by the council on September 21. "All ordinance creating a purchasing purchases amounting in total cost to $300 or more, except fuel oil, must be approved by ordinance, regularly passed by the city council, before such purchase may be made." the act states.

According to the ordinance approved last night, "the said fire truck shall meet all specifications as per contract, herinafter to be signed, and be approved by the Missouri Inspection Bureau.

"The said General Fire Truck Corporation (from whom the truck is being bought) shall post with the City of Sikeston a bond for $7000 to insure the faithful performance of their contract." The truck will not be purchased, the ordinance adds, until all provisions embodied in it are fulfilled.

The fire truck company's contract, which was approved by the inspection bureau before it was sent here, was read at the meeting but not signed. A copy of the ordinance has been mailed to the corporation for the approval of the clause requiring the $7000 bond.

At the meeting Tuesday night W. C. Boardman, street commissioner, was authorized to secure movable signs prohibiting parking in front of the union bus station on Malone avenue between 12 and 7 o'clock and between 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Provisions for the signs followed a request for them made at the meeting Tuesday night by Billy Walker.

Real Estate Office and Beauty Parlor to Occupy Welsh Bldg.

Part of the furniture for the office of the Thrower Real Estate Company, which will be located in the Welsh building on Center street, has already been moved to the firm's new quarters.

The office will be opened soon, it is thought, since Ira Thrower, formerly an associate of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company here, was expected here late this week to arrange final details concerning the establishment of a Sikeston branch.

The Thrower Company, which maintains offices in Cape Girardeau, Kennett, Poplar Bluff and St. Louis, will occupy less than half of the space available for rent in the Welsh building. The other part will be used for a beauty parlor, which will be opened by Sam Graham about December 1.

On Tuseday, workmen constructed beaver board partitions to divide the front part of the vacant building into two office rooms, and began to paint the interior walls yellow.

The two offices will be divided by a small vestibule. The Thrower Company quarters will be located on the east side of the building, and the beauty shop on the west.

The space for the beauty parlor will be much larger than that for the real estate concern, and will be L-shaped. In the front, there will be furniture for a waiting room. The large back part will be set off either by a wall or curtains and will accommodate the equipment necessary for the shop. Mr. Graham will employ at least two experienced operators he said today.

Reserve Feed Loans Available For Stock

Over 365,000 emergency drought loans aggregating $24,000,000 have been made to western and middle western farmers and stockmen since the drought fund appropriated last summer became availbale, Governor W. I. Myers, Farm Credit Administration, said today.

Just over 200,000 of the loans amounting to about $14,000,000 represented initial advances, primarily for the purpose of purchasing feed for livestock and 165,000 supplemental advances have been made aggregating $10,000,000. Ordinarily such loans are made in monthly advances, limited to amounts required per head for the stock to be fed.

"With the approach of severe weather conditions over many sections where feed is short it is very important for borrowers who need feed and have no other source of credit to make application for emergency loans early so there will be no delay in acting upon them due to suddenly changing weather conditions or other unforseen factors," Governor Myers said. "The funds available for the emergency feed loans are limited," he continued, "and no farmer or stockman should borrow or spend unnecessarily for feed; but where the stockman can anticipate his later needs with reasonable certainty, he should apis to be purchased immediately. ply early, whether or not the feed

"In parts of the primary drought areas where winter weather conditions will prevent transportation of feed, range livestock operators may obtain funds to purchase a reserve feed supply, such advances being secured by liens on the reserve supply and on the stock to be fed," the Governor stated. "The monthly advances are made on the basis of the borrower's promissory note.

"In addition to the reserve feed loans," Mr. Myers said, "the borrower may apply for regular monthly allowances and hold his extra two-months' feed supply in reserve for emergency purposes when transportation may be cut off. Then, in cases where the monthly allowances are obtained without interruption and the reserve supply retained through the winter, the latter will take care of feeding needs in February and March next year and under such conditions advances to the borrower for those months will not be necessary."

Work of Preparing Legion Park for Tulip Bulbs Begun

An allotment of numerous imported tulip bulbs will be planted in the American Legion park as soon as the weather permits, according to William F. Woehlecke owner of the Sikeston Greenhouse and originator and sponsor of the project.

On Tuesday afternoon workmen removed the Canna plants which this summer occupied the park's flower beds. Work was stopped Wednesday and Thursday because of the hard rain. Mr. Woehlecke hopes, however, to remove several trees in the pary, to rearrange several shrubbery beds, and to replace shrubbery which has died. He will also create some new beds for the tulips.

ADVANCE NOT ALLOWED TO ELECT POSTMASTER

The appointment of Boyd Jenkins as postmaster of Advance to succeed Mrs. Mayme Prather seemed likely today after the Stoddard county Democratic central committee had declined to allow residents of the town to choose a postmaster by ballot.

More than 816 persons living in Advance were said to have signed a petition requesting permsision to elect one of three men who had ranked highest in a civil service examination.

A total of 13 persons took the tests, Jenkins, August Young, and Wilson Ackert making the best grades. After the county committee had endorsed Jenkins, a bookkeeper for the Richmond Construction Company, the petition was circulated.

Committee members rejected the petition and then sent their recommendation to Senator Bennett Champ Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Taylor and son, Emory, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Ellis are spending a few days in St. Louis this week. Mrs. Ellis will enter hospital for treatment.

W. O. Ellis returned from St. Louis Tuesday, Mrs. Ellis remained at the hospital for further treatment.

5.40 Inches of Rain Fell in 16 Hours Here

The largest rain here in many months was recorded Wednesday when a total of 5.40 inches fell in 16 hours, between 1 o'clock Wednesday morning and 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. Data on the rainfall was gathered by John La Font at the Frisco station.

During the period from Wednesday night until early Thursday morning .30 of an inch fell, making a total 5.70 inches of almost continuous rainfall. On Monday, .27 of an inch was recorded here.

Sewers were taxed with the flood of water, many of them were clogged with fallen foilage, causing the streets to be filled with water almost to the tops of the curbs. Automobiles were stopped by water and mud and pedestrians forced to go far from their routes to avoid wading through ponds, water also flooded many basements.

Near Sikeston, a Wyatt coal company truck was driven off the highway and into a ditch, presumably to miss striking another machine. A tractor belonging to G. B. Greer, taken out to pull the truck from the ditch, was also mired. It was necessary to unload the coal and to secure another tractor to pull both vehicles from the ditch.

No serious damage was reported. The rain, which was welcomed by farmers, was not accompanied either by sereve lightning or by a strong wind.

Blodgett Teacher's Case To Court of Appeals

An appeal to take her case to the Springfield court of appeals was granted to Mrs. Caroline Stebbins Strayhorn Tuesday in the Scott county circuit court. Mrs. Strayhorn filed an appeal to the Springfield court Saturday when her motion for a new trial in the circuit court was overruled by Judge Frank Kelly.

An instructor in the Blodgett schools during the 1932-33 school year, Mrs. Strayhorn lost a suit for the payment of salary which she had filed against the Blodgett school board after a trial during the August term of the circuit court.

The case arose over the fact that Mrs. Strayborn married after she had signed a contract to teach last year. The board, however, had previously enacted a ruling which barred married women from the faculty. Contending that her contract was valid Mrs. Strayhorn, filed suit against the board for failure to pay her $450 for nine months, beginning on August 28, 1933. She was represented at the trial by J. Grant Frye of Cape Girardeau. Blanton & Montgomery of Sikeston served as attorneys for the school board.

On Monday the state's case against Willard Westmoreland for the balance of a fine and costs of $200 imposed on Westmoreland on a charge of bootlegging approximately a year and a half ago was changed to a jail sentence of 20 days, since Westmoreland failed to pay the fine.

When a demurrer, filed by the defendants in the 50,000 damage suit brought in the circuit court by Margie Carle and her father, R. H. Carle, both of Chaffee, against the Southeast Missouri Telephone Company, was presented in court for consiredation, yesterday, the plaintiffs were February 1 to file an amended granted, at their request until petition.

The suit, which will not be tried before March term of court, is an outgrowth of an electrial storm September 11 during which a bolt of lightning splintered a telephone over which Margie was talking in her home. Her face was badly burned and her nose broken. She was reported to have been temporarily blinded and confined in a hospital for some time.

The lightning also broke three window glasses and tore plaster from the dinning wall of the Carle home.

The replevin suit of E. E. Tanner versus W. M. Sprugeon, was dismissed Wednesday because the plaintiff failed to file a bond. The suit developed from an alleged argument between the men concerning the right of lien on a patch of watermelons near Vanduser.

Jewel Love was granted a judgment of $500 against Milem Limbaugh last Thursday after a verdict in a suit instituted following a car accident near Brown Spur last summer. The suit brought against Limbaugh by Minnie L. Kell as a result of the same accident was continued last week to the next term of court.

Fred Arnold, charged with burglary and larceny, was found guilty of petit larceny by a circuit court jury last Friday. He was fined $75 and sentenced to 90 days in jail.

On Saturday, the damage suit filed by Harvey Blackwell against W. O. Finney was taken to the Cape Girardeau court of common pleas on a change of venue, and the injunction suit brought by Virgil Williams against the Carson and Righter truck company to prevent officials from building a new terminal on Highway 61 at Gladys street was taken under advisement.

Myrtle Chaney was granted a divorce from Aaron Alvon Chaney, awarded $30 a month alimony, and given the custody of minor children. An interlocutory decree for divorce granted last term to Martha Lambert from Felix Lambert was made final and complete.

On Wednesday, the divorce action instituted by Lucy Williams against Beulah Williams was taken under advisement. Carly Powers was granted a divorce from Lorene Powers, and De Mova Cunningham was given a divorce from Jesse Cunningham and her name changed to De Mova Reeves. J. O. Penermon, a negro preacher of Sikeston, was granted a divorce from L. B. Penermon.

Yesterday, H. C. Haywood was granted a divorce from Rosa Haywood. In a suit of Vera Holmes versus Raymond Holmes for separate maintenance, a decree was granted by agreement, the plaintiff receiving a judgment for an unspecified amount.

Sixteen desirable and valuable prizes will be given away at the Malone Drug Store December 25 to the eight boys and eight girls, all under 12 years of age, who secure the largest number of votes during a Rexall contest which will open Saturday.

Prizes for the girls will be eight large, handsomely dressed dolls, valued at between $15 and $5. The boys' prizes, in the order of their ranking, will be a complete electric train, an erector set, a tool chest, a large dump truck, a big train coach, a microset, a pair of roller skates, and a sowboy outfit. All the prizes are now on display in a window of the Malone Drug Store.

One vote in the contest will be given for every penny spent on any purchase at Malone's. When they make their regular purchases at the store, parents, relatives, and friends may cast votes for particular contestants simply by writing the contestant's name on a ballot provided by store officials.

To enter the contest all children under 12 who want to try for the prizes will be required only to place their names on slips of paper giving the slips to store officials. Because the contest will run only from Saturday until Christmas day, cotnestants are urged to enter the contest before Saturday so that they may be able to start securing votes as soon as possible. No contestant, however, may solicit votes or customers while he is in the store.

In case of a tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

EFFORTS MADE TO OPEN HIGHWAY 60 BY NOV. 29

Efforts are being made by associates of the State Highway office here to have the new strip of concrete on Route 60 east finished so that the highway may be opened for travel to Charleston on Thanksgiving day. Officials now hope that the pavement will be ready for use by football fans who desire to see the Bulldog-Bluejay game next Thursday afternoon. A definite announcement concerning the pavement will be made Monday.

TO SPEND 700 MILLION

Henry Ford will spend $700,000,000 for materials to build a million Ford automobiles in 1935. J. William Foley, Sikeston agent for Ford cars, said this morning. Believing that the return of prosperity is certain, Mr. Ford will "start the ball rolling" by providing employment for manufacturers of materials and Ford automobiles alike and thus greatly stimulate the circulation of money which is vital to prosperity.

NEW EIGHT-TON WAR TANK MAKES 50 MILES AN HOUR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—An eight-ton tank capable of making 50 to 60 miles an hour over rough country, was tested by the War Department yesterday through Washington's streets and over the Memorial Highway to Mount Vernon.

Protected by three-quarter inch armour-plate, costing $30,000, it is designed to be the first of a fleet of war tanks to go into action ahead of the infantry. The War Department budget probably will provide for construction of several during the next year.

MISSOURI PRESS ASSOCIATION

Some amusing mistakes frequently appear in newspapers. The last issue of The Standard aimed to say the sanctum was "brightened" by a visit from a pretty girl, and when part of the edition came from the press, the word "brightened" read "frightened". The press was stopped and the change made, but not until part of the edition was printed. However, we doubt if any one who knows us would think we would be frightened when a pretty girl came to see us.

We have an idea our readers will be greatly interested to know that new atoms have been built up by the use of neutrons. This is a wonderful thing and may cause the corn-hog regulations to be revised.

There is no truth in the story that part of the corn fodder that has been shredded for livestock is to be treated with molasses and some pleasant flavor, chopped and placed in cartons for breakfast food for those on the relief work.

Be certain to visit the Lair Furniture store and see the rustic display made by Sam Wilcox. The front of the Lair store is about 100 feet and ten feet back from the plate glass windows has been placed a white lattace fence five feet high and on this fence that almost hides it, has been placel oak boughs containing vari-colored leaves painted by Jack Frost. Interwoven with the boughs are pipe stem cane with the tassel and green blades. All of this setting makes an ideal place for the paper quail that take their place among the cover. It is a very attractive decoration that will please the human eye and make any quail dog come to a point.

At the recent press meeting a great deal was said of the county press being the moulder of public opinion, that we almost believed it ourself. While hearing compliments from prominent speakers we resolved, while in the meeting to return to our place of business and begin to form some moulds of a high order to try on our people. Then the first rattle out of the box went and wrote a paragraph that probably hurt a father and mother. We are afraid our moulds won't work, or maybe we had better change lead pencils, or have a change of heart.

At heart we would like to be the sort of newspaper man that every community needs and so few have. We would like to have the good will of all, but with the heart now within the body and the head upon our shoulders, there is something lacking some where. To some we are obnoxious and disliked, to some tolerated, and others put up with us. The small children, who are yet to learn the frailties of man, like us for which we are thankful. Possibly the only way in which we can change is to die, and that we do not like to think about.

The appellate court at Chicago has absolved Sally Rand of a year-and-a-half old charge that her fan dance was indecent. The reversal excused Miss Rand from having to serve 10 days in the house of correction and paying a $200 fine for the alleged shock to World Fair visitors in 1933.

Seven carloads of spinach are about to leave Lenexa, Kan., for the markets, to be fed by adamantine mothers, versed in the dietary mysteries, to their helpless families. The dispatch containing this sad information, however, is not without its cheerful note, for it goes on to say that "there is enough more spinach of good quality to load 50 additional cars." Now, we wish the spinach farmers no bad luck, nor do we desire to draw such wrath from Lenexa, as, last April, was vented upon us by Crystal City, Tex., "the recognized spinach capital of the world," when we attempted a few humorous comments on the green stuff. But those 50 carloads that are being left behind give some hope that we are not to become all at once a nation of Nebuchadnezzars.—Post Dispatch.

Buy Now Drive Is Winning

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Although the bicycle wave of popularity hit the country first, the Buy Now Campaign is rapidly catching up with it, with the result that many citizens these days are bringing home the groceries on their bikes. Here, right in the heart of the capital, you see Miss Dorothy Bailey with the evening's dinner on the handlebars.

STODDARD COLLECTOR DIES OF PARALYSIS

Charles Buck, Stoddard county collector and treasurer, died of paralysis at his home in Bloomfield Sunday afternoon. Mr. Buck had been in poor health for several months and recently suffered three paralytic strokes, the last on Tuesday. He was 65-years old at the time of his death.

Born and reared in Bloomfield, Mr. Buck was educated in the Bloomfield public schools before he enrolled in the University of Missouri and later in the University of Illinois. Returning to Bloomfield he became active in the Buck Store Company, founded by his father in 1858, and served for many years as secretary-treasurer of the firm.

He was elected to a four-year term as county collector and treasurer in April, 1933. The office was the first political one he had ever held, but for some time he had served as chairman of the county Democratic central committee.

He is survived by his second wife, three sons, a daughter, a brother, a half-brother, and two sisters.

Funeral services were held at the First Christian church Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. G. A. Hoffman, pastor of the church officiating. Burial was in the Bloomfield cemetery.

MISS MARY LEGRAND

Miss Mary LeGrand, 18-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. LeGrand of Oran, died at the St. Francis hospital in Cape Girardeau early Monday morning after undergoing an operation for an intestinal obstruction. She had been ill only 29 hours.

Funeral services were held at the Guardian Angel Catholic church in Oran Wednesday morning, with the Rev. H. M. Helmbacher, pastor of the church in charge. Burial was in the Catholic cemetery at Oran.

Miss LeGrand, daughter of a prominent Oran farmer, was one of nine children.

Hoffman of Cape Girardeau for the last comforting words, and thank the quartet for their beautiful song. Especially do we thank the Dempster Undertaking Company for their kindness.

Mother and Father, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Gulley, Salcedo.

Children, Joe Ann and Gilbert Henry Gulley; wife, Mildred Gulley; Sisters, Mrs. Lela Riley, Magnolia King, and Mrs. Lillie Waters of Sikeston, Mrs. Alma Harmon of Piggott, Ark.; and Mrs. Opal Meyers of Salcedo; Brother, Robert Gulley; Half brothers, Fred Riddle of Dexter and Ezra Riddle of Sikeston.

To the loved ones it was so sudden
Our white lips said,
For we shall miss him,
The beautiful dead.
But God knows best.
We know he watches the sparrows that fall
Hears the sad cry of the sad hearts that call
And wife and family, he loveth them all.
So we can trust for the rest.

GOOD NEWS—BUT DON'T CHEER YET

The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that the total estimated fire loss for the first nine months of this year was $213,405,000. For the same period last year the loss was $245,351,000—almost $32,000,000 more.

That decrease, of approximately 15 per cent, in fire waste, is good news. But it doesn't give us cause to pat ourselves on the back and praise our care, caution and competence. The fact that over two hundred million dollars worth of property went up in smoke in 9 months amounts to a national disgrace. Americans are still the most wasteful of all peoples when it comes to fire—and by a wide margin.

What caused the destruction of the two hundred million—and, in addition many hundreds of irreplaceable lives- The anwser is easy. People took chances with old or damaged heating plants. They allowed rubbish to accumulate. They stored inflammable liquids in open containers, or near a source of flame. They allowed electric wiring to go unattended—or "repaired" it themselves. They tossed cigarettes and matches away blindly, letting them fall where they might. They allowed dry grass to grow jungle-like on property. And they did a thousand and one similar things that are close to the heart of the fire demon.

If the present trend continues, total fire loss for the year will be in the neighborhood of $285,000,000. Almost every dollar of that waste can be laid to someone's carelessness or ignorance—the unpreventable fire is a very rare article indeed. Are you going to do your small part to make 1935 show a better record?

CORN-HOG PRODUCTION TO BE REDUCED 10% IN 1935

The corn acreage reduction for 1935 will be only 10 percent below the 1932-1933 base average, according to a definite announcement made Monday by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

If they wish, however, farmers may reduce their crop further, growing a minimum of 70 percent of two-year base period and receiving benefit payments for the additional cut of 20 per cent.

If normal weather conditions prevail, the total corn production next year will be 250,000,000 bushels above that required to feed livestock, figured on the 90 per cent maximum.

A like reduction of 10 per cent in the number of hogs will also be required of signers of government contracts,. The new reductions are far less than the 20 to 30 percent cuts in corn and the 25 per cent cuts in hogs for 1934.

PEMISCOT DEPOSITORS TO GET 12% PAYMENT

Under a circuit court order, Morrell DeReign, receiver for the closed Citizens Trust Bank of Pemiscot county, will issue a 12 per cent payment to depositors soon after the first of December. The total amount of money to be distributed is $36,000. Two other payments have been made, one in 1930 and a second in 1932.

TREASURY REPLENISHED

While only 27 units of property were sold in Stoddard county recently under the terms of the Jones-Munger tax law, persons owning a total of 180 tracts paid their delinquent taxes the day before the sales began.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Story, Miss Bessie Moore and Harve Sizemore drove to Lilbourn Sunday morning to bring the latter's mother, Mrs. W. J. Sizemore, home with them for a visit to extend through Thanksgiving.

YOU get a real "kick" out of your motor, when your toe touches the starter . . . if the tank is filled with Phillips 66, the greater gasoline.

Your engine starts with split-second speed, even on days of freezing cold. It does so because Phillips 66 is honest high test. And high test is what it takes to swing a cold motor into instant action.

You know that! You also know that Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high test gasoline. All of which certainly explains why we frankly print in plain figures the high test rating of Phillips 66.

In each of our advertisements, these gravity figures are proof of our statements about Phillips high test . . . are evidence that we fear no comparisons with other gasolines . . . are your guarantee of greater value for your money.

As these figures change from month to month, they reflect the beneficial operation of our pioneer method of custom-tailoring gasoline. CONTROLLED VOLATILITY is the name we give to this process of matching gasoline to climate and location, and we invite you to note how Phillips specifications change as the weather changes.

For more snap and dash . . . more power and miles . . . ever-constant and flashing response to the throttle . . . less noise and knock . . . discover the difference between gasolines by stopping for a trial tankful at any Orange and Black 66 Shield.

ONE BIG REASON FOR MORE MILEAGE

PHILLIPS 66: Less gas used for starting; More gas left for mileage
LOW TEST GAS: Wastes gas in starting; Less gas remains for mileage

See the dramatic saving given by Phillips 66 high test. It starts motors faster . . . cold weather or warm. That's why it leaves more gas in every gallon for actual running.

Keeping Step With Nature

Autumn with its myriads of beautiful colors in field and forest has so impressed our window dressers with nature's beauty that they have arranged our big front window this week with a background gathered from nearby fields and thickets. The blending of berries, grasses and foilage is very pretty indeed and I gladly give our "boys" credit for the good work. In front is another assembly of beautiful things, not so deftly colored and shaded perhaps as the former, but alluring to lovers of nicely furnished homes. We invite your attention to both pictures—that created by nature's hand and its companion exhibit by our country boy salesman.

"Hell's Broke Loose"

That's the way one floor covering man described present prices on felt base rugs. Being on the watch for a situation of that sort our buyer has just bought 100 or more HIGH GRADE rugs made by one of the largest mills in the country, which we are going to sell at the price of ordinary quality. These are full 54 lb. weight, beautiful patterns and in every way worth the $9.75 formerly asked for them. Take them along until this lot is gone at $7.75.

WILLING YOUTH LOOSES 2 PROSPECTIVE BRIDES

It is the undisputed right of a woman, any woman for that matter, to change her mind for any reason or for no reason.

But when two women change their minds, individually, about the same man, well, sir, it's enought to make a man disgusted with 'em.

If you don't believe it, ask Jimmie Rodgers, address Poplar Bluff, aged 22, and willing.

Jimmie appeared at the office of the recorder of deeds last Saturday and applied for a marriage license. He and a Miss Clark, also of Poplar Bluff wished, he said to be wed. He laid his dollar on the counter and walked out, certificate in hand.

Well, sir, if everything had gone off as specified this would have been a cut and dried double wedding story and that's all. But Miss Clark changed her mind. What if her intended husband did have a yodler in the family, Jimmie Rodgers of record fame being an alleged real cousin of the almost-bridegroom Rodgers. And what, also, of the fact that Rodgers had invested several additional dollars in a trous . . . trouss . . . you know clothes for his intended wife.

She walked out.

But Rodgers, undaunted, came back to the office of Justice of the Peace I. R. Rone and explained that the scheduled double wedding of his friend, Jack Hogan of St. Louis, 22, to Miss Pauline Virginia Hickson, 18 of Poplar Bluff, and himself and girl friend was not yet off. "No, sir,' he said "I've bought this license and I'm going on through the with the wedding. I know another girl here in Poplar Bluff. I've talked with her, and now I'm going out and try to get her in the notion."

Rodgers did come back. This time he brought Miss Lucile Goldstein and his original license. Diligent work with an eraser and a pen changed the face of the document, and again the proposed wedding was almost consummated. But not quite.

Miss Goldstein changed her mind.

Mr. Hogan and Miss Hickson were married yesterday afternoon at the office of Judge Rone. Mr. Rodgers and Bertha Hickson, sister of Mrs. Hogan, were witnesses.

Mr. Rodgers, downcast and discouraged, brought his slightly worn marriage certificate back to the office of George Seifert, county recorder. "Can I get my money back on this?" he asked.

"No," said the man on the other side of the counter," "don't guarantee 'em not to change their minds."

This morning the registrar's book contains an unusual notation. It says, "Issued, returned but not used."—Poplar Bluff American Republic.

THREE WHO ESCAPED FROM ARKANSAS JAIL DISCOVERED IN BLUFF

Three men who escaped November 9 from the Clay county jail at Piggott, Ark., were discovered in Poplar Bluff Monday night and returned to the jail by Sheriff Jack Wallain.

One of them, John Brackens, 27 years old, was waiting trial on a murder charge at the time of his escape. According to officers, Brackens and his sister held up G. M. Presson last December, the sister beating Presson's head with a blackjack while he was held by Brackens. After Presson died from his wounds, the sister was sentenced to the Arkansas penitentiary.

By voluntarily appearing before a grand jury and confessing to bootlegging, Brackens secured an indictment, conviction and sentence on that charge. New evidence in the Presson case was discovered, however, and Sheriff Wallain secured a holdover warrant for Brackens' release.

Willard Brackens, 19 years old another of the escaped prisoners and his companion, Frank Martin, 20 years old, were jointly charged with robbing several boys and girls as the latter were going to a movie.

Young Brackens was discovered at the Poplar Bluff transient bureau, where he was suffering from a severe case of arthritis which had required treatment by a Poplar Bluff physician. He had registered as Killiam Rumbles after bureau officials had barely obtained sufficient information to fill out a necessary card. Martin was found in a Poplar Bluff home.

The three captured men, together with three others who are still at large, gained their freedom while plumbers were doing repair work at the jail. The escape was effected after they had secured passage into the runaround and then used hacksaws which had been smuggled to them by friends.

HIRED MURDERER GIVEN 10-YEAR PRISON TERM

Pleading guilty to manslaughter in the killing of Lum Mills, Bragg City farmer, Elmer Driskill, 23 years old, was given a 10-year prison sentence Tuesday by Judge John E. Duncan presiding in the Pemiscot county circuit court.

Driskill confessed to the crime soon after he was arrested, but insisted that William McPherson had hired him to murder Mills. Driskill served as the state's principal witness at the trial of McPherson, who was sentenced to 50 years in the penitentiary after his hearing in July.

The Catholic Ladies will give a box supper at the Marshall Hotel Monday night at 7:00 o'clock. You are invited.

KENNETT YOUTH KILLED WHILE HUNTING MONDAY

Neal Parker, 17 years old, of Kennett was almost instantly killed at noon Monday when he accidentally shot himself while he was hunting with three young men companions, in some woods near Kennett. One discharge from Parker's shotgun penetrated his abdomen, he died in the woods before he could be taken to town for medical treatmenet.

Carrying a borrowed 12-gauge shotgun, Parker had fired one shot at birds which flew up near drainage ditch number 36. The members of the party had not used their guns.

At a coroner's inquest, held in Kennett Monday afternoon, the victim's companions stated that just before the fatal shot Parker was leaning against a tree with the gun's barrel in his hand and the butt resting on the ground. Soon afterward, as they reached a point a little ahead of the place where Parker was standing, they heard a shot, and turning saw Parker lying on the ground. Two of the hunting companions went to a farm house to summons a physician, but by the time an ambulance had reached the scene of the shooting, Parker was dead.

After the hearing the testimony members of the jury returned a verdict of "death by accidentally shooting himself with his own gun while hunting."

Parker is survived by his father, his stepmother, and a brother, all of Kennett, and a second brother and a sister, both of Whitehall, Ark.

THANKSGIVING DINNER

Few of us who deserve the name, "homemaker", would willingly renounce her privilege and responsibility of preparing the Thanksgiving dinner next week. And on that day set aside by national proclamation, dinner must live up to the mouth-watering traditions of a century—potatoes mashed to snowy whiteness, giblet gravy, savory stuffing, buttered squash, cranberry relish, amber jelly and aromatic pickles, and a turkey basted to perfection.

The fun of Thanksgiving is planning a dinner worthy of the central theme, roast turkey. Of course you've decided whether your turkey will wear a shining, glazed surface (by basting with melted butter and hot water) or whether you'll dredge your bird with flour for a dull finish. But first, have you ordered your turkey? It isn't too late yet to ask your butcher to set aside a choice bird for you. Be sure to have him clean it and to remove the pin feathers and tendons. Then all that's left for you is to wash the fowl inside and out with a damp cloth, rub a little salt in the cavity and stuff it loosely with the dressing you select. Old-fashioned New England sage - and - breadcrumb dressing is by far the most famous, though oyster and chestnut dressings also have an early American origin. When the turkey is stuffed and trussed, it may be placed in a refrigerator of safely cold temperature until roasting time, even a day before Thanksgiving. In fact, much of the preparation for modern Thanksgiving dinners is made the day before, thanks to modern refrigeration. Vegetables, for example, are prepared and sometimes even cooked the previous day. Poe-filling, frozen dishes, the giblets for the gravy, cranberry relish, are made ready the day before, and early Thanksgiving Day the preparation of the cocktails and salad is out of the way.

Looking for ideas? A cranberry cocktail will start the Thanksgiving feast in true Cape Cod style if cranberries aren't already cast in the role of relish. Other refreshing beginners are seafood cocktails, spiced tomato juice, sections of grapefruit and orange chilled in ginger ale, and mint ice on crushed pineapple. Something new in an appetizer to serve with the cocktail is large, crisp potato chips spread with a seasoned anchovy or chicken liver paste. A simple salad of greens with French dressing is most appropriate between the substantial meat and dessert courses at Thanksgiving dinner. Endive and romaine will be cutting in on the popularity of head lettuce for Thanksgiving salads, and avacado pears will lend a delicate and unusual flavor to many Thanksgiving reparts.

For dessert, Indian pudding or a plum pudding is quite within the Thanksgiving tradition. The pudding may be old-fashioned, served with hard sauce, or jellied in the modern manner. Cranberries apply for a position in the pies, if not already employed. But if you're using pumpkin pies, serve with unsweetened whipped cream topped with nests of tempting golden honey!

Thanksgiving Proclamation

By the Mayor of the City of Sikeston

"I, G. W. H. Presnell, mayor of the City of Sikeston, hereby designate Thursday, the 29th day of November, 1934, as a day of thanksgiving for the people of Sikeston.

"Thus to set aside in the autumn of each year a day on which to give thanks to Almighty God for the blessings of life is a wise and reverent custom, long cherished by our people. It is fitting that we should again observe this custom.

"During the past year we have been given courage and fortitude to meet the problems which have confronted us in our national life. Our sense of social justice has deepened. We have been given vision to make new provisions for human welfare and happiness, and in a spirit of mutual happiness we have co-operated to translate vision into reality.

"More greatly have we turned our hearts and minds to things spiritual. We can truly say, 'What profiteth it a nation if it gain the whole world and lose its own soul.'

"With gratitude in our hearts for what has already been achieved, may we, with the help of God, dedicate ourselves anew to work for the betterment of mankind.

"In witness where of, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Sikeston to be affixed.

"Done in the City of Sikeston this 20th day of November in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-four and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and fifty-ninth."

(Signed)
G. W. H. PRESNELL,
Mayor.

O. J. Ferguson, editor of the Democrat-News at Fredericktown, who for more than a year has been chairman of relief work with all its ramifications for Madison County, resigned November 7th. It's no wonder he resigned. No man who expects to have time to make a living can serve as chairman unless he happens to be on a public corporation payroll where time does not eat into the living. The abuse that is heaped upon those trying to administer relief fairly and honestly, is a crime. If a person gives all his time, energy and everything else to this work he is accused of being a common thief and a political despot. The time is going to come in the relief work when no one who expects to maintain their honor will have anything to do with local administration. It is too bad that many of our people will listen to scandal mongers and jump at conclusions based solely upon malicious lies to their own hurt and injury.—Lead Belt News.

Beef Canning Plant to Be Opened at Chaffee

The government beef canning factory which is being established in Chaffee will be opened in about 10 days, Lewis Flewelling, county certifying officer, said today.

Since the opproval of the project was made by the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission in Jefferson City recently, preliminary preparations for the opening of the cannery have been made rapidly.

Fred Alvey of Chaffee will serve as superintendent of the plant, Mr. Flewelling said, and 33 experienced workers will be employed to can meat. The plant will be operated until March 15.

Some equipment formerly used in a vegetable cannery in Chaffee has been moved to the meat plant near the transient bureau headquarters and other equipment, including a large boiler, zinc to cover the tables, and knives, have been bought.

Meat brought to the factory will be inspected at least once a week, and possibly twice, by a licensed veterinarian, and employes of the plant will be frequently examined by a registerd nurse.

All beef canned in the plant will be handled for farmers of Scott, Mississippi and Cape Girardeau counties on a 50-50 basis. Only a few of the cattle purchased under the government's drouth relief project will be slaughtered and canned at the factory, since the Chaffee plant will be primarily a custom cannery for the use of farmers living in the three counties mentioned above.

Members of farm families who have previously been forced to use pork, for the most part, during the winter months, will now hvae an opportunity to secure canned beef at reasonable rates. Mr. Flewelling said. Farmers will be required only to feed their cattle from the time they reach the plant until they are slaughtered. Their returns will be more than adequate, officials think. Those who have cattle which they do not care to feed this winter are urged to notify Mr. Alvey at Chaffee.

The part of the beef which is retained at the cannery will be distributed this winter to relief families living n the counties from whch the cattle are sent to the plant.

WOMAN'S CLUB

The regular meeting of the Womans Club was held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Denman on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance. After reports of committees were read, Mrs. Wm. Foley read a Thanksgiving poem, and Mrs. Arthur Reese gave a splendid paper on Thanksgiving.

Plans are being made for an open meeting to be held at the Marshall Hotel in December.

HUNTER USED CARBIDE, WATER TO SMOKE COON

Efforts of Noah Brinker of this city, 40 year old professional hunter and fisherman, to "gas" a coon out of a hollow tree instead of smoking him out, may cost him his eyesight.

Brinker, who lives on North Front street, and his 15 year old son, Eddie Lee, were hunting west of Poplar Bluff Monday night and their dog treed a coon in a big hollow tree, Brinker decided on a new wrinkle in the coon extraction line. He placed a quantity of carbide inside the aperture at the tree base and poured water on it, on the theory that the gas generated would cause Mr. Coon to leave his place of refuge.

Brinker waited quite a while but no coon emerged. When he thought the gas fumes had time to dissipate he stuck his head in the tree hole to try and take a look upwards. Attached to his cap was a carbide light. There was a terrific explosion. Flames enveloped Brinker's head and he was knocked backward several yards. The tree trunk was split and a fragment of it struck Eddie Lee on the leg, inflicting a bruise.

The boy led his blinded father to their car and drove him home. Dr. William Spaulding found that both Brinker's eyeballs were burned. He stated this morning that he might be able to save the man's sight but that both eyes were in a serious condition.

"That explosion sounded like a stick of dynamite' Eddie Lee said yesterday. "It sure tore things up".

Brinker is married and has a family. Besides the eye injury he suffered burns about the face and neck.

No one knows what became of the coon.—Poplar Bluff American Republic.

WARNS AGAINST USING UNFINISHED HIGHWAY

Contractor E. L. Markham last week warned motorists not to use Highway 74 between Dutchtown and Cape Girardeau because of damage it will do to new surfacing now being applied. On two nights last week some vehicles got around barricades and traveled over the road, damaging the new surfacing near Dutchtown so that it had to be repaired. He said prosecution will be made if any persons are found driving over the road until it is opened for travel.

DOUBLE WEDDING AT BENTON CATHOLIC CHURCH

A double wedding ceremony was performed at St. Denis church Tuesday morning when Adam LeGrand, son of the late Anton LeGrand, and Miss Lorena Scherer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Scherer, were united in wedlock by Rev. Joseph LeGrand of East St. Louis, brother of the groom. Attendants were Cyril Scherer, brother of the bride and Miss Coletta Klipfel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Klipfel.

John Zeigler, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Zeigler, and Miss Colletta Scherer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe L. Scherer, were married by Rev. H. T. Macke, pastor of St. Denis church. Attendants at this wedding were Joe Zeigler, brother of the groom, and Miss Cecelia Scherer, sister of the bride. The brides are sisters.

The church was well filled with friends and relatives at the wedding ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. LeGrand will reside in Benton, as the groom has work with the Charles Jenkins contracting crew. The Zeiglers will live with John's father and engage in farming with him, on the place just below Lambert.

All four of these young people are well known in this community, where they have grown to man and womanhood. Theirs is the first double wedding in St. Denis church since Tony Diebold and Christine Strack, John LeGrand and Colletta Strack were married fifteen years ago.

A wedding dinner was served at the Scherer home and a dance was given at night at the Schott hall in Lambert.—Scott County Democrat.

Turkey Left-Overs With Appeal

THANKSGIVING DINNER is not always the greatest test of a housewife's skill and ingenuity. The form of this meal is so bound by tradition that we do not like to forge ahead and try too many strange new dishes when the family expects the grand old favorites of other years. So it is well to stick to the familiar dinner with the lordly Thanksgiving fowl as the center of all interest. But when the feast is done there remains a real problem to test the imagination and skill of the meal planner. This once proud turkey, after the inroads of a hungry family, is just a sorry little bird stripped of its glory. Like a stage star in the zenith of his popularity, he seems to have said "Hail and Farewell" in his one brief moment. But it will be the end if a successful meal planner is backing this bird. She will promote successful comebacks down to turkey soup and choice bones for the dog. These recipes will make dining on turkey leftovers a delight from their first to their last appearance.

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

Turkey a la King—Melt 3 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper and 3 tablespoons chopped pimientos, and cook slowly until slightly brown. Add 3 tablespoons flour and blend well. Add 1 medium tin Cream of Mushroom Soup and ¼ teaspoon salt, and stir constantly until thick. Add 1 tablespoon India Relish and 2 cups diced cooked turkey, and heat thoroughly. Add 2 well beaten egg yolks, and continue cooking for 2 to 3 minutes. Serve in patty shells or on slices of buttered toast.

Creamed Turkey with Olives on Toast—Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 4 tablespoons flour, and blend well. Add 2 cups milk or thin cream, salt and pepper to taste, and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add 2 cups cold cooked turkey, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley and ¼ cup sliced Stuffed Spanish Olives. A beaten egg yolk stirred in adds to the richness of the dish. Serve on buttered toast or on crisp crackers.

Turkey Club Sandwiches with Bacon—Toast bread quickly so that it will not be hard, and butter generously. Spread with slices of cold turkey, then with crisp slices of broiled bacon. Add a leaf of lettuce and spread with Mayonnaise. Cover with another slice of toast and serve accompanied by Tomato Ketchup or Chili Sauce.

Turkey and Peas En Casserole—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a pan and add 2 tablespoons flour and mix well. Add 1 cup turkey broth and ¼ cup Tomato Ketchup and cook until boiling, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Place 2 cups cold turkey and 1 cup cold cooked peas in alternate layers in a baking dish or pan and pour the hot sauce over them. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot over with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until brown, and serve.

Deviled Turkey—Sprinkle cold cooked turkey (wings, second joints, drum sticks, etc.) with salt, pepper and flour. In a skillet, place 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons Chili Sauce, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce and 1 teaspoon Prepared Brown Mustard. Fry the turkey in the skillet and when delicately browned add 1 cupful hot turkey broth and simmer for five minutes. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve.

Turkey with Quick Mushroom Sauce—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 3 tablespoons flour and blend well. Add 1 medium tin Cream of Mushroom Soup and stir until thickened. Add 1½ to 2 cups cold diced turkey and 4 sliced hard cooked eggs. Add salt and pepper, if desired, but since the turkey was seasoned when cooked, and the Mushroom Soup is so carefully seasoned, little additional seasoning will be required. Serve on biscuit straws, which are made by rolling biscuit dough to not more than ⅛ inch in thickness, then taking a sharp knife and cutting the dough into thin strips—about ⅛ inch wide and 3 inches long. Bake as for biscuits in a hot oven (425° F.) until delicately browned (from 5 to 8 minutes). Place the biscuit straws on a platter, pour the turkey with Mushroom Sauce over top, garnish with parsley or with Sweet Gherkins or Spanish Olives.

BUTLER COUNTIAN KILLED WHILE CUTTING TIMBER

A broken limb which fell while he and another man were cutting timber near Fairdealing, struck and fatally injured Joe Ferguson, about 21, son of J. P. Ferguson, Butler county farmer, late yesterday afternoon.

Young Ferguson's companion picked him up and took him to his home. The injury, according to Joe Gardner, who resides near the Fergusons, was not at first believed to be so serious, but after the young man was taken to his home he lapsed into unconsciousness and died at 4:30 p. m.

The accident, according to information reaching here, occurred at about 2 p. m.

Residents from that community who were here today said the limb struck Ferguson on the head and back, probably causing fracture of the skull. He was knocked to the ground but did not lose consciousness until after he had arrived at his father's home.

Funeral services, it is said, are scheduled to be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Ferguson farm.

J. R. Reynolds, coroner of Butler county, said this afternoon he had not been advised of the death, but that he would conduct an investigation. He said inasmuch as the young man died in Butler county it is a case for this county to handle.

Officers said they do not doubt but that the death was purely accidental, but the regulations call for an investigation into such cases.

Coroner Reynolds late today learned, he said, that Ferguson died in a hospital at Doniphan. He had not verified the report, however.—Poplar Bluff American Republic.

a resident of Bloomfield, has had almost complete charge of the collector's and treasurer's office for a year since Mr. Buck was too ill to care for his work.

FOLK DRAMA SCHOOL TO BE HELD IN CAPE NOV. 24

The fourth annual school of folk drama for Southeast Missouri high school teachers and students will be held at the district teachers' college in Cape Girardeau on Saturday, according to a recent announcement.

The school, which 120 persons attended last year, is a forerunner of an annual folk play writing contest open to all high school students of the district. Ordinarially, the play competition ends during the first week in January and winners are announced a short time later. Before spring, the outstanding plays are staged at the college and additional awards given for presentation. Last year, Gwendolyn Duncan, a Sikeston high school student, won first prize in the play writing contest with her one-act play, "Gold Earrings". In other years during which the competition has been held, Sikeston pupils have received special mention.

The school this year has been divided into classes of two kinds, backgrounds and technique. They will be held simultaneously.

The combined programs for the morning meetings will include the following events: a discussion of the technique of playwriting by Prof. Lealon N. Jones; a talk of "District Events of Dramatic Significance" by Dean Vest C. Myers; a reading from a folk study, "Home Folks", by Ned Emery, a college student; and a talk by W. A. Ownbey on "Ozark Reminiscences". Prof. Jones, Dean Myers, and Mr. Ownbey are all members of the college faculty.

In the afternoon Miss Maxine Isley of Blodgett will discuss technique further; illustrative readings will be given by students of the college high school; and Dr. A. C. Magill will speak on "Here and There in Southeast Missouri."

At the conclusion of the group meetings, a general session will be held for all persons attending the school. At this gathering, Miss Martha Shea will suggest possible developments of plot ideas given her and a one-act folk play by Prof. Jones, "Party Line", will be presented.

Several Sikeston high school students, accompanied by at least one instructor, will attend the school.

RELIEF OFFICIALS RUSH PLANS TO AID FARMERS

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov 21—Burned out farmers, faced with carrying through their livestock until the next grazing season, are being aided by the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission.

Wallace Crossley, Relief Administrator, is mobilizing stockmen and poultry men, and others interested in their welfare, in a vast feed conservation program. He started it in August, when it was apparent that nature, with diabolical cunning, had done irreparable damage to grain crops.

While farmers were reading a tale of ruin in the whitening tassels in the corn fields, Mr. Crossley and his advisors, looking forward to a lean winter, realized the value of the grainless corn as a roughage feed. Immediately, the Relief Administration provided a market for fodder. Many a farmer who saw only loss in his cornfield took hope.

To date, 166,739 acres of fodder have been purchased by the Relief Administration alone, and thousands of farmers have been led to put up their fodder.

William T. Angle, director of livestock and feed for the relief administration, estimates that Missouri has conserved the cutting and shocking of 90 per cent of all the corn-fodder grown that was worth preserving.

Angle is making plans to process a considerable portion of the fodder. Molasses, cottonseed, salt, and calcium will be added to make a better balanced stock ration.

This fodder has been conserved primarily for the use of persons that secure feed relief assistance through the relief administration. These are farmers who are unable to obtain through purchases or loans feed for their livestock. Their feed needs are $25.00 or less a month.

The Relief Administration also made available seed stocks for fall pasturage.

Even with fall pasturage and the conservation of roughage, a survey shows that Missouri may still need additional roughage from other sources. Should winter close in severely, thereby eliminating the use of wheat, rye, and barly pastures, the livestock feeder will be in serious difficulty.

Normally, Missouri stockmen feed 180,000,000 bushels of corn annually. This year, Missouri produced about one-tenth of that supply. The quality of the corn produced is so inferior that half of it is usless for poultry feeding and many other purposes. Practically the same situation prevails in other states where corn crops aggregate approximately 1,480,000,000 bushels—the smallest corn crop since 1881.

Fodder and molases-processed fodder will help offset this loss.

NAVAL HUMOR

"You say you served in the World War?" said the restaurant manager as he sampled the new cook's first soup.

"Yes, sir. Officers cook for two years, and wounded twice."

"You're lucky. It's a wonder they didn't kill you."

"I should like to buy some nice new novels, please".

"Do you wish something light, asked the clerk."

"It doesn't matter, really, I have my car with me."

Mother: "Remember my boy, your father was a boatswain's mate."

Son: "What does that make me, mother?"

Mother: "That means you must be a gentleman, my son."

Son: "Yes, I suppose somebody must save the family name."

Captain: "So, you're overleave because you had your car overhauled. What has the overhauling of your car to do with it?"

Seaman: "Well, you see Captain, it was a speed cop that overhauled it."

Scotch Sailor: "Doctor, what can you do to prevent my being seasick?"

Ship's doctor: "Have you got a dime?"

Scotch Sailor: "Yes".

Seaman: "I met a swell blonde in New York."

Fireman: "Did you?"

Seaman: "She certainly did."

Old Salt: "I am going to tell you a story that will make your hair curl."

Scotty: "Hoot Mon! Wait until I get my wife. She wants a finger wave."

Neighbor: "What was the sporting editor doing at Jones house this morning? I didn't know he was a sport."

Eyewitness: "He isn't; he just ran over his mother-in-law."

Blonde: "What's the age limit for sailors?"

Brunette: "Sister, a sailor is the limit at any age.

1st Gob: "How much money do you take home to your wife every payday?"

2nd Gob: 'None of it".

1st Gob: "Lucky stiff, how come?"

FIX CARS—NOT TICKETS

"With much fixing of automobiles and no fixing of tickets, there should be a material reduction in Chicago's motor vehicle death rate," said Mayor Kelley in opening a new "safety lane" in which automobiles are given tests to determine mechanical safety.

Chicago's experience with the lane bears that out. During the first week of its operation, 73 per cent of all cars passing through it failed to earn the safety "O.K." The bulk of them had defective brakes, many had wheels out of alignment, while lack of proper lights, mirrors, windshield swipes and horns caused the failure of the rest.

It was then complained that the tests were too stringent, and that only cars in first class condition were able to pass. The tests were then modified to give automobiles in only fair shape a chance. Even when this was done, 40 per cent of the cars going through the tests failed to meet specifications. It is probable that the percentage of Chicago cars which are unsafe mechanically is higher than this, inasmuch as the owner of a machine whose condition is obviously bad would not subject his car to the tests.

Portland, Oregon, has recently carried on similar examinations, under direction of state police. The experience has been about like that of Chicago, around half of the cars examined proving to be unsafe in one or more fundamentals.

The unsafe automobile is almost as great a hazard to the public as the reckless driver. Every city interested in reducing the horrible toll of street and highway fatalities should carry on automobile inspections—and then see to it that defects are corrected. In these days of high speeds and super-highways, there is no room for the car with brakes that won't hold, lights that won't illuminate, and horns that won't sound.

The Catholic Ladies will give a box supper at the Marshall Hotel Monday night at 7:00 o'clock. You are invited.

Spring Fever

Say "spring fever" to most adults and they think of sulphur and molasses. Although such so called tonics and blood purifiers are gradually, and deservedly, passing out of general use, the fact remains there is a condition which we come to know as "spring fever."

In reality, spring has nothing to do with it. Winter is the season at fault. We are shut in more and subjected to colds, sore throats, and the like during the winter. We take less exercise and receive less sunshine. We lack quantities of green vegetables and fruits in our diets. By the time spring rolls around, the reserves of strength and energy are approaching low tide.

We speak of being "run-down" or "tired-out." And that is what it is—a mental and physical "let down," for children as well as adults. But the answer is not medicine. Send the child out of doors; let him get sunshine; bring on the fresh vegetables and fruits. If there isn't a pick-up, by all means consult your physician, for the "let down" may have brought on something more serious.

"Desserts," an important matter where children are concerned, will be discussed by Dr. Ireland next week.

BARNETT GIVEN LIFE FOR SLAYING RIPLEY FARMER

Ed Barnett, a former convict, who farmed near Doniphan, was given a life sentence in the state penitentiary Monday, when he pled guilty before Judge Robert I. Cope in the Ripley county circuit court to killing D. M. Burke on May 7 of this year.

After Barnett had stated he was guilty of the murder, Judge Cope outlined the case, which he termed a cold-blooded slaying, then added that since the prisoner had confessed he should be given some clemency. Barnett had nothing to say.

In his original confession to the murder, Barnett contended that he killed Burke for a promised $25 offered by Orrison McKiney, a farmer neighbor of the slain man. McKinney, however, was acquitted after a three-day jury trial in the Butler county circuit court last month.

Burke was killed from ambush as he was watering his mules at sunset. At the Doniphan hospital, where he was taken for treatment, it was discovered that the charge from a shotgun had entered his body on the right of the abdomen.

At the time, the motive for the slaying was believed to have centered around about two and a half aces of land, the ownership of which both Burke and John McKinney, Orrison's father had claimed for several years.

According to Barnett's confession, Orrison had convinced the former convict that Burke intended to kill him and that it would be wise for him to strike first. Orrison, Barnett said, slipped his father's shotgun from the McKinney home while the elder man was tending his bees, and placed the weapon in a designated hiding place near a spring. Barnett found it, he said, shot Burke, and then returned it to the spring. Orrison was said to have taken the gun back to the house then. Barnett was never paid the $25, he said.

The Ripley county courtroom was filled with spectators, who went to Doniphan to hear the disposition of Barnett's case.

Special searchlights which are not ruined when submerged to depths of over 200 feet are now used by submarines. The inside of the light is allowed to flood, the water draining out when the submarine comes to the surface, the mirror and the lens are not damaged. Special bulbs are made to withstand the high pressure as in ordinary incandescent light bulb will break when submerged to a depth of 200 feet.

HOME

The best place for all,
For the great as well as the small.
When we feel said or blue
Mother always knows just what to do
She makes us feel glad
When we thought we wer sad.
We can sit in a quite little nook
Read, write or look at a picture book,
And after school when hungry we be,
Isn't home a swell place for you and me.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

Various accidents beset Pop Clark's St. Louis Cardinals in the pennant race—their gloves are doped, an attempt is made to bribe Pop's new pitcher, Larry Kelly, to lose games and when he refuses he is injured in a taxi "accident," so he's ordered off the diamond for two weeks. And then Larry, jealous of Dunk Spencer, his rival for Pop's daughter, Frances, threatens to prevent Dunk from keeping a tentative date with her, and during a game at home Dunk is shot dead just as he approaches the plate with the run that would have won the game. Moreover, gambler Joe Karnes stands to lose $1,000,000 if the Cardinals win the pennant, and Henry Ainsley will lose an opportunity to get the franchise away from Pop. With the murder of Dunk, the police are called in.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII

Jimmie Follows a Hunch

"Wait a minute," said Holmquist. "Yeah, I remember now: I thought I heard a bee buzzin' around my head, and I tried to shoo it—"

"What the...!" exclaimed Grogan in exasperation. "Honest, Chief... We got a moider on our hands, and he shoos a bee!"

"Can I ask him a question, Loot?" demanded Jimmie Downey.

"Sure. Go ahead."

"Ever heard a bullet in flight, Nils?"

"No."

Lieutenant Cato flung out impatiently: "What's it all leading to?"

"I think he heard the bullet, Loot. Sometimes they make a buzzing sound. A thirty-thirty can make a sound just like a bee."

Cato considered Jimmie's words a moment and then ordered Grogan to take the pitcher out on the diamond. "Have him show you where he was standing and where Spencer dropped. Take Downey along. Get a line on where the bullet came from."

"Okay, Chief," grumbled Grogan, and muttered to himself: "'Some-

"Wasn't there a lot of ill-feeling among the players, Miss Clark?"

times they make a buzzing sound!' Nerts!"

As they left Pop's office they passed Frances being escorted in by a policeman.

Holmquist took up the position where he stood as Spencer fell, and they figured that if the bullet that killed Dunk Spencer had come close enough to the pitcher for him to hear the buzz, it must have come from a building to the left of the diamond and back of the pitcher's position. It was too dark to see well, but the policemen who traced a line from where Dunk fell past the pitcher's post ended up against the wall by a warehouse.

"Looks like an inside job," said Pat Patterson, grounds-keeper. "One of the players made a threat against Dunk——"

"Hold on there," said Grogan. "Start at the beginning and let's have all you know—in your own words."

"Well, I had lunch at the Busy Bee——"

"There's that bee again!" snorted Grogan.

"—then I came directly to the grounds, talked to the newspaper boys, said 'Hello' to Dunk Spencer, and he said he had a date with Miss Clark. He said Kelly was sore——"

"You mean the pitcher, Larry Kelly?" Grogan demanded.

"Yeah, and Dunk said Kelly was sore and was goin' to try and stop him—or something like that. They had words. He said Kelly threatened him. Swore he'd see to it that he didn't keep the date with Miss Clark."

"We'll get around to him later," said Grogan.

Jimmie Downey touched Patterson's arm. "Pat, what's that building over there?" He pointed to the one from which they figured the shot had been fired.

"Dunno. Never been up there."

Grogan ordered two policemen to get up on the roof of the building and see what they could find, but one of the men whispered hoarsely: "Sarge, look!" and pointed towards the dugout where a dim figure could be seen moving furtively along, apparently searching for something on the ground. Grogan silently motioned for his men to divide and circle about the mysterious figure. As the man was about to disappear in the shadow of the dugout the police sprang forward and grappled with him. Grogan flashed a light on the prisoner and Patterson cried out: "It's O'Toole!"

"I'm all right, Sargeant," O'Toole told Grogan. "I'm an umpire."

"Whadda ya mean an umpire and yer all right? Bring him along." Grogan led the way back to Pop's office.

Lieutenant Cato in the meantime was grilling Frances. She was nervous and fidgety, but answered spunkily.

"Wasn't there a lot of ill-feeling among the players, Miss Clark?"

"No. Of course, they had their little quarrels."

"Didn't Spencer have one?"

"One? What—what do you mean?"

"Never mind. Were all the members of the team present at the game?"

"Yes—that is——"

Cato thrust out his jaw. "Sure, I thought so! So Larry Kelly wasn't there?"

"He didn't have to be. He wasn't working."

"Didn't you promise Spencer a date for tonight—if he won the game?"

Frances hesitated nervously before she replied: "Yes."

"And Kelly knew about it?"

"Yes, of course he knew about it," flared Frances. "But if you think Larry Kelly would kill a man on account of a thing like that, you're crazy!"

"Never heard of such a thing as a jealous man shooting his rival, did you, Miss Clark?"

Cato's thoughts were given a new angle when a policeman entered the office with Larry Kelly in tow. Before questioning him, Cato sent Frances out of the room, and she gave Larry a quick, panicky look.

"Now, Kelly, you knew Spencer had a date with Miss Clark, didn't you?"

"Yes—if he went good today."

"Burned you up a little, didn't it?"

"I guess I was pretty sore," Larry admitted.

"Yeah? Where were you during the game?"

Larry hesitated a moment. "Just wandering around town."

"You can prove that, I suppose?"

"Well, I don't know that I can."

"You wanted your team to win, didn't you?"

"Sure."

"And you knew how much this game meant—and you didn't have interest enough to stick around and watch it."

"I wanted us to win all right, but—well, Spencer was a good player, but this time I didn't want to be around when he was taking the bows."

"Especially if it meant he was going to take your girl, too."

"One game wouldn't mean that he'd take any girl."

"No? You saw to that, didn't you?"

Larry jumped to his feet in angry protest. "Now, listen, you——" But Jimmie Downey entered the office and went swiftly to Cato.

"I just got a hunch, Loot. Will ya——"

"Yeah, you reporters always got a hunch the police are wrong."

"I never fooled you yet, did I?"

"No, but that doesn't mean you haven't tried. Whatdaya want me to do?"

"Let me follow it up—give me some sort of authority—and if I'm right, let me break the story ahead of the other boys."

Cato thought over the proposition quickly. "Son, if you can bring in the guy that did this, you can write your own ticket."

"Loot, you're a sensation."

Half an hour later Jimmie Downey walked into Joe Karnes' richly furnished office, and sat down across the desk from the gambler, while Max Feldstam stood watchfully in the background.

"About this killing of Dunk Spencer this afternoon, Karnes——"

"Why do you come to me about that?" demanded Karnes coldly.

"Well, I figure you'd been bettin' on the Cardinals to lose the pennant. I'm not making any accusations, ya understand, Joe——"

"That is unimportant," shrugged Karnes. "If you know anything, spill it."

"I know this, Joe—you've got a heavy—er—investment in the baseball situation—something close to a million——"

"How do you know that?" snapped Karnes.

"What does a newspaper man get paid for? For finding out things, Joe. You were in Cincinnati when Kelly found ten G's on his bed; and you were in Cincinnati when Kelly's taxicab accidentally stumbled into a ditch. And you're here in St. Louis when Dunk Spencer's bumped off."

"So were you. So what? What're you here for?"

"Purely in the line of duty. I want an exclusive on which of Pop Clark's players is going to get it next."

"You're not by any chance accusing me of murder?"

"Not yet. But I know how far you'd go for a million dollars."

"Then don't you think it would be prudent to attend to your own business?"

"That's what I am doing. The boys in the club are friends of mine, and I'm anxious that nothing happens to any more of them."

"Well?"

"I'm just going to hang around—see who comes and goes—maybe get a line on how you spend your vacation. I'm just telling you in case something more does happen."

"I'm afraid that's going to be rather inconvenient, Downey."

"Not at all. I've got plenty of time."

"You say I've got heavy dough against the Cardinals. Skip that. But I've other interests that I can't afford to have you monkeying with. We're going to take care of you right here until the series is over. Then you'll find yourself coming out of a week's drunk, in Boston, and can't prove anything. Max, show Downey to his room with plenty of liquor."

URGES CONTROL OF STREAM POLLUTION

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 18—The State Planning Board, in its preliminary report, recommends a stream pollution survey and a subsequent control program in Missouri as a part of its plan to conserve natural resources.

The increasing use of the 16,000 miles of streams for recreational purposes is one of the important reasons for investigating stream pollution, the report states. The installation of sanitary sewerage systems should be encouraged.

Nineteen cities, with 40 percent of the state's population, discharge raw sewage into the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, it was found. This pollution problem has not become so acute as endanger fish life or create a nuisance, but the bacterial contamination is placing an ever increasing load on the water purification plants n cities depending upon these streams for their water supply.

Of 773 incorporated communities in Missouri, only 140 of these have sewerage systems and only 69 have treatment plants, about one third of which are adequate to prevent pollution, the survey revealed. The State Planning Board recommends that a commission be given the power to control the use of streams for water supply and discharge of waste, since health authorities were found to have virtually no control over the water of the state at present.

It was found that more than $47,000,000 has been spent in drainage and flood control in Missouri exclusive of the expenditure of the Federal government on rivers. "Much of it has probably not been spent wisely, the entire problem of land use is considered", the report says: observing further that, "in some cases the drainage projects have increased the flood problem at other points, thereby forcing additional land into the drainage district."

The drainage problem was described as "complex' and as one that should have careful and detailed study."

Opportunities for water power development in the Ozarks is stressed with estimates that only 250,000 of the available 600,000 horsepower has been developed. The economic value of this power does not lie wholly in its use as a force of energy the report says, but "at least partly in the fact that it conserves fuel which otherwise would be used, and thus increase land values."

HOG CALLER FRUSTRATES DRY RAIDERS

The long drawn out "Pig-o-ooo-e-e" of a hog caller Friday afternoon, and the willingness of two distillers of illicit liquor to risk pneumonia in the icy waters of the St. Francis river combined to frustrate the efforts of internal revenue agents to arrest the suspects.

A guard stationed near the 50-barrel outfit lifted his voice after the manner of hog callers, and two operators of the still struck out for the tall and uncut, headed straight for the river, and were crawling out on the other bank when the posse of federal men reached the stream. The "revenooers", afraid to risk their health and possible exposure to a shower of buckshot while in the water, chose not to follow. The still and 10 barrels of mash were confiscated and destroyed.

Two days before the federals destroyed one of the largest stills found thus far in this district. The outfit consisted of a 100 gallon still and 15 barrels of mash. There was evidence enough, the agents stated, that their visit surprised the owners in the act of moving. Twenty barrels of mash had been removed.—Poplar Bluff American Republic.

CALVIN HARRIS BAGS TWENTY-POUND BOB CAT

Calvin Harris, of this city, experienced an unexpected thrill last Monday, when, while visiting relatives at Tillman, in Pike township, he was afforded an opportunity of killing a bob cat.

Mr. Harris said his attention was attracted to dogs chasing what he supposed to be a rabbit, and after awaiting some time he decided to take his gun and help them out. After a short wait he was rewarded by sighting what at first appeared to be a goat, jumping through the brambles, but at closer view he decided that the quarry was a bob cat. As the cat made a bound over a low shrub he fired, and the depredation of the 20-pound female bob cat were ended.

Mr. Harris brought his kill to Dexter and donated it to the Greenhead Hunting and Fishing club, to be mounted and placed in their club house, southwest of Dexter.

The place at which this cat was killed would probably be the last place in Stoddard county where a hunter would expect to encounter a bob cat, as this is a thickly settled farming community.—Dexter Messenger.

Mrs. Peck estimates that in the last nine years she has made 40,000 pies, and over 2,000 fried pies for Peck's Cafe. The Cafe owned by Mr. and Mrs. Cruse, is widely known for the good food served, many traveling men making it a point to reach Illmo at meal time. Mrs. Cruse makes a specialty of cocoanut cream pie and the writer would 'walk a mile" any day for one of these delicious pies or any other she makes.—Illmo Jimplicute.

Many Products Successful Due to Art in Blending

THE word "blend" has returned into everyday use now that repeal has restored legal whiskey to wet the American vocal cords. Why it ever dropped into discard is somewhat of a mystery because the American, more than any other type of mortal, has a taste for blends, whether in food, drink, smokes or solider stuff. Seemingly, as the late Frank Munsey used to put it, he likes to combine the best features of each.

Whiskey blenders are the modern alchemists of today producing the finer liquors from matured rye and bourbon stocks.

Steel, the basic product of big business, is a blend, and so is every sauce, every salad, every perfume. Champagne, the American's favorite wine—when he can afford it—is a blend. Usually the still "natural" wine of high quality comes from a single vineyard, a single press, but to produce a great champagne the vintner looks for one quality here, another there, and then mingles his selections so that the deficiencies of one grape may be offset by the virtues of another. By blending various juices he makes a wine that brings out the better qualities of all its component parts.

Nearly all of the finer teas are blends. So are the better coffees sold in the United States. Usually when visiting foreign countries where little care is taken in blending the various types of coffee beans, or where only one quality is used, the American begins to express a nostalgia for home "where a man can get a decent cup of coffee."

In the United States the popular brands of cigarettes also are blends, with the domestic tobacco of Virginia, Maryland, the Carolinas or Kentucky forming a base to which is added the more pungent leaf from Turkey or from Egypt. Some of the tobacco blenders employ molasses to enrich and sweeten the aroma of their cigarettes. On the other side of the Atlantic most Englishmen prefer straight Virginia tobacco, and nothing else, in their cigarettes.

But when it comes to his whiskey and his port, the Briton, both north and south of the Tweed, leans to blends. The best ports and sherries are those in which wines of different ages have been mingled together. Many of the finer Scotch whiskies are produced by blending the output of one distillery with that of another, each blender having his own formula, so that not two brands are likely to taste exactly the same, or to have precisely similar aroma.

The American preference in whiskies before prohibition—and again under repeal—is predominantly for blended ryes and bourbons. In prewar times seventy per cent of the American whiskies on the market were blends. The whiskey from one plant was mixed with the product of another, or whiskey of one age was mingled with an older or younger product, each contributing a distinctive flavor to the whole. To achieve smoothness and fragrance, sherry and neutral spirits were blended with straight whiskey.

Unless it has aged for a number of years, straight whiskey is harsh and fiery. It is the blender's art to eliminate these deficiencies. When repeal arrived there wasn't enough matured straight whiskey in American warehouses to provide even one drink per throat for a thirsty populace. Across the border in Canada are the largest stocks of matured American type ryes and bourbons—many millions of gallons, of which more than 12,000,000 are held by one concern. These whiskies, four years old and more, are being steadily imported into the United States, and used as the basis for blends, which because of their reasonable price and smoothness, are returning to their position as the favorite American drinks.

FIGHTING GASOLINE TAX DIVERSION

The American Road Builder Association recently announced drive against diversion of gasoline and automobile taxes from highway purposes. In support of the drive, the aid of the public, legislative bodies and chambers of commerce will be sought.

The Association contends that gasoline tax diversion—whereby the motorist is made to pay for something he doesn't get—is one of the biggest obstacles to the maintenance of an adequate program of highway construction in this country. In order to give the public the complete facts, the Association plans to gather nation-wide information concerning the amount of gasoline tax funds diverted, and the purpose for which they were used.

It is doubtful if any tax has been so abused as that levied against gasoline. The tax was initiated some twenty years ago in order to make the good roads movement possible. It was predicated on the theory that motorists, who receive the principal benefit from fine highways, would not object to contributing, through the tax, a special fund for their construction and maintenance. The average motorist did not object—he was even eager to pay the tax, believing it to be equitable and just.

So it was—when it was used exclusively for road work. But during recent years more and more states have come to depend upon the gas tax as an inexhaustible source of revenue for the general fund. The tax rate has been upped time and again—and less and less of the revenue has gone to highway departments. As a result, whenever the motorist takes his car out he is forced to pay a special, class tax, much of which is used to defray the cost things which should be paid for by a tax equally affecting all people.

The motorist has stood for this "tax racket" long enough. It is a pretty safe forecast that he will rally with cheers behind the new drive to use gasoline taxes only for the purpose for which they were originally intended.

CAR STOLEN AT CAPE WRECKED IN 2 HOURS

Two hours after it was reported stolen from a Cape Girardeau Street, Monday morning, a new Chevrolet sedan belonging to H. F. Emerson of Morley was found abandoned on Highway 55 near Diehlstadt.

The automobile had been overturned and badly damaged.

Discovery of the machine was made by a farmer living near the scene of the accident. He called Mr. Emerson's store at Morley to tell of finding the car.

After the car had been parked in Cape Girardeau early Monday morning Mrs. Emerson went into a store. Several minutes later Mr. Emerson followed her, leaving the doors unlocked and the ignition key in the automobile.

A Special Factory Showing of the New All-Enamel Majestic Range will be held in this store next week. A man from the factory will be in attendance to show this new triumph in cooking efficiency, and explain its many interesting details. We specially invite you to come and see for yourself how completely the problem of efficient, convenient home cooking has been solved in Coal and Wood Ranges. It is easy to have a beautiful, cool and modern kitchen without changing over to expensive fuels.

The NEW ALL-ENAMEL
Majestic Range
IN IVORY, APPLE GREEN, GRAY, WHITE OR BLUE

No matter what fuel you use, the same amount of heat is always necessary to cook or bake. Cool, clean cooking is never a matter of the fuel, but of the Range. The New Majestic uses the good old reliable fuels that everybody is accustomed to, but it uses them with a new efficiency. It holds the heat inside, around the cooking compartments, instead of wasting it outside, in the room. With it you obtain the utmost in cooking and baking ability, together with real fuel economy and a cool, comfortable kitchen to work in. Results like these have been sought for years in coal ranges, but have only recently been obtained.

Makes a Cool, Clean Kitchen

Every woman knows how an ordinary range "heats up" a kitchen, especially in summer, and how uncomfortable it is to work under such conditions. Yet this is all unnecessary. With a Majestic there is all the difference in the world. The heat is concentrated on the work; the room is comparatively cool; the cleanliness and the convenience and practical features of this modern aid to good housekeeping are equal to those in any range of any type—And you have with it a beautiful Kitchen, too—for the new Majestic is a handsome creation of bright enamel color and gleaming nickel—as easy to keep clean as it is wonderful to work with.

"Pay-as-you-use-it"

You can get one of these modern high-efficiency Ranges for your home so easily! By special arrangement with the Majestic factory we are able to offer a most attractive "pay-as-you-use-it" plan. Just a little down; the balance spread over many months. No interest, no carrying charges, no advance in price! Come in, this Next Week, and let the demonstrator from the factory show you how this beautiful New Majestic will lighten your work, and how easily you can obtain one!

FREE—Next Week only—while the special Majestic Demonstration is going on—a full set of these heavily nickeled copper cooking utensils will be given to every purchaser of a New Majestic Range!

TO HOLD COTTON MEETINGS

Control Association Announces Community Schedule

Every cotton producer in New Madrid county is to be given an opportunity to share in a discussion of the cotton production problems and outlooks for 1935 at a series of community meetings conducted by county and community committeemen of the New Madrid ciationCounty Cotton Production Control Association, assisted by the county extension agent and his assistant.

The meetings will all be held on Monday night, November 26—and at the places listed below:

Matthews—Gymnasium.
Canalou—High School.
Kewanee—Gymnasium.
New Madrid—Court House.
Lilbourn—City Hall.
Catron—School.
Parma—Gymnasium.
Gideon—High School.
Risco—Gymnasium.
Conran—Masonic Hall.
Portageville—not announced
Morehouse—City Hall.
Marston—School Buliding.
Malden—City Hall.

The meetings will begin promptly at 7:00 o'clock.

At these meetings county and community committeemen will act as leaders in the discussion of the cotton growers' problems. The reasons for the adjustment program, the purpose of the processing tax(and the results accomplished by the associations thus far will be discussed. It is the opinion of the county committeemen, after attendnig the regional conference at New Madrid Tuesday, that many farmers who are familiar with the details of the adjustment contracts and payments are still eager to learn more about the fundamental principles underlying the adjustment program, as well as the current situation and its probable effects on the association's plans for the future.

A reduction of the American cotton supply from 26 million bales in 1932 to 20 million bales at the present time was reported at the Tuesday and Wednesday conferences, yet despite this progress in adjustment there still is a future threat of larger surpluses since the amount of American cotton now being used up each year is only 13 million bales.

The price increase, the committeemen found, was from 6.5 cents in the 1932-33 season the year before the program went into effect, to 9.7 cents in the 1933-34 season the year of the plow-up program, and to 12.5 cents on October 15 of this year.

It is the processing tax which makes possible the adjustment payments, the cotton committeemen's study revealed. This tax is paid by consumers as a part of the price of cotton products they buy, and amounts to an average of 8 cents on a sheet, 3 1-2 cents on a shirt, 8 1-4 cents on overalls and 1 cent on a yard of muslin. The cotton processing tax is 4.2 cents per pound or raw lint.

These and other facts on the adjustment program and the processing tax which supports it will be analyzed by the committeemen men in discussoins with producers in the community meetings.

PARK PROMISES SHARP REVISION OF LIQUOR LAW

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 21—Sweeping revision of the Missouri liquor law will be recommended to the next session of the Legislature, Gov. Guy B. Park said in an address before the Chamber of Commerce here today.

Declaring that the existing law was thoroughly unsatisfactory, the governor outlined three major changes he said he would suggest, as follows:

That the present distinction between 3.2 beer and stronger beer be eliminated and a single license be granted. He said the present dual system was unenforceable.

That the hours of closing be extended as the midnight closing provided in the present law was an open invitation to violation.

That State enforcement officers be given the right of search and seizure and that more teeth be put into the law.

"I am not a prohibitionist", said the Governor. "I never was a prohibitionist, but I believe the liquor law should be amended to protect society and not the liquor interests and that the liquor interests should and must not meddle in the amendments to this law.

"The liquor law was passed hurriedly and is not a good law. It is too lax. It has too few teeth and should be strengthened. The distinction between 3.2 beer and other beer must be done away with. All kinds of beer should come under the same license fee."

To enforce the law which requires that places with licenses to sell only 3.2 beer not sell any beverages of a higher alcoholic content would bankrupt the State because of the number of inspectors required, said the Governor. But that could be remedied, he said, by putting the same tax on both kinds of beer.

"Then", he continued, "there should be an authorization in the amendments permitting officers the right of search and seizure. As the law is written, officers have no right to go into a place and search it.

"Twelve o'clock now is not what 12 o'clock used to be for some of us who have old gray hairs. Now we may go to bed at 9 o'clock when some of the youngsters are just starting out for the evening."

Park said that he believed formulation of a tax program would be the major problem before the Legislature but that he was not ready yet to outline his program.

"If I had my way, and I probably won't" he said, "I would do away with all property taxes in Missouri for State purposes and assume some of the country's burdens."

The Governor said new taxes would have to be found to continue temporarily Missouri's share of the relief burden. The sales tax and liquor levies passed last session have not produced the revenue needed or expected, he said.

Much of the tax load should be taken off both city and rural real estate, Park said, and placed on intangibles which now escape taxation. Some burdens now carried by the counties, such as care of the insane, should be assumed by the State, he said.

Another recommendation made by the Governor was that all schools of higher eductaion in the State be placed under a single board. All teacher's colleges in the State and the School of Mines at Rolla should function as an integral part of the University of Missouri, the Governor declared.

Park also approved a program of consolidatiing counties. This step should not necessarily be taken at once, he said, but it should be done in the future in order to cut down the expense of local government, especially in the poorer sections of the State.

U. S. TO BUY 200,000 ACRES IN MISSOURI

WASHINGTON. NOV. 21—The forest service will acquire on Friday some 200,000 acres of Missouri forest land scattered over about 30 counties, most of them in the Ozarks. This will be added to the approximately 400,000 acres which the Federal Government has already acquired in Missouri for the six forest reservations that were established a year ago.

Altogether the forest service will take over on Friday 700,000 acres in a half dozen Middle-Western states, said to be the largest single acquisition ever made by the service.

This is in line with the general policy of the service which is greatly increasing the national forest reserves. Evnetually a total of 1,200,000 acre will be acquired in Missouri. About half of this has now been added to the national reserve.

These forest reservations beside affording a timber reserve, are small national parks open to the use of the public. If and when Congress makes funds available it is expected that additional CCC camps will be established on these newly acquired lands to build fire lines, trails and shelters.

For the Missouri lands acquired the price is said to have varied between $1 and $3 an acre. Leslie S. Bean, of the forest service, stationed at Rolla, Mo., is in charge of acquisitions in that State.—Post-Dispatch.

TEAMWORK AT A FIRE

In a way totally unexpected by the voters who gave President Roosevelt such a sweeping mandate last week, the election promises to smooth the road to recovery in the United States. For two reasons:

1. The result is so widely interpreted as an indorsement of the President that it should give him a much freer hand. It has so strengthened the executive's position as against legislative blocs that he should be able to continue the Administration's recent progress away from restrictions and regimentation. The unmistakable expression of popular support should enable him to withstand bloc pressure for spending to benefit certain groups, such as the veterans and the silver interests.

2. The election has convinced business men that they can do more for recovery by getting down to work at their own jobs than they can by political agitation against the Administration. Even the most conservative bankers and industrialists now recognize that they have somehow got to get along with this Administration for at least two years more. Alarmist cries now are more likely to retard recovery than to stop Roosevelt. The voting last week showed plainly that the real danger now is that recovery will not come soon enough to forestall demands for jobs or food which would drive the Government into far more radical measures than any we have seen.

Apparently, recognition of these facts has resulted in a genuine and widespread effort, among business leaders, to speed recovery and to co-operate with Washington. It is almost amusing to read headlines such as this :'Business Starts Recovery Drive to Calm Congress'. Hitherto we have always read about Government's efforts to calm business. Those efforts are manifestly continuing. The Administration's earlier moves to relax NRA restrictions are proceeding, as are its somewhat less successful efforts to ease up crop control. And in the last three days four other definite steps have been taken to reassure business.

It is now declared that the job of saving mortgaged homes, which had called for emergency action by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, can now be handled by private enterprise. And the Treasury has lifted the ban on exports of capital or currency. Since such a ban would be essential to prevent a flight of capital in case of inflation, the Treasury's action is widely regarded as an assurance that the Government has no intention of indulging in frightening monetary measures. In addition, the Housing Administration has shoved ahead by at least two months it plan for accelerating private building under Title 2 of the Housing Act. Latest, and possibly most important, is the comfort Mr. Roosevelt has given business by limiting his immediate program of social security to some form of job insurance.

On the side of business we find the New York Stock Exchange, which was supposed to be virtually ruined by the mere threat of regulation, now bestowing its blessing on the ne wSecurity and Exchange Commission. Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, declares that while some amendments may prove to be necessary, the new act will neither destroy the business of brokers nor disrupt a free and open market. And we find a great many business leaders who not so long ago were both bitter and pessimistic now quite ready to give circulation to current reports of better business.

They are far more in the mood to be encouraged by news that the best holiday business in years is expected for December, and that there was a 40 per cent increase in building permits for October, not only over September, but over October a year ago. Moreover it is reported that industrial leaders are seeking to head off the thirty-hour week, not merely by letters to congressmen but by definite efforts to increase employment in their own plants.

These moves by both business and Government are heartily welcome. There is a familiar story about the two fire companies who tle a house burn down while debating over whose job it was to turn on the water. It is a happy day if Wall Street and Washington have now recognized that the situation caused by the world-wide economic conflagration makes bickering dangerous and co-operation imperative.—Christian Science Monitor.

According to an announcement received here Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Buckner of Beloit, Wis. former residents of this city, are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born November 11, weighing six pounds 13 1-2 ounces. The little miss has been named Patsy Ruth.

Southeast Missouri's Leading Semi-Weekly

VOLUME 23 — SIKESTON, SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI FRIDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 23, 1934 — NUMBER 16

THE EDITOR SAYS—

While the next National and State elections are some months off it is high time to look forward for leaders to carry on the work begun by our President and Governor. If President Roosevelt lives, no other name will be submitted to the National Democratic Convention when it convenes, as he is foremost in the hearts of his countrymen. In State affairs no man stands higher in the estimation of our people than does Dwight H. Brown, Secretary of State, and The Standard takes pleasure in placing his name before the people as a worthy successor to Governor Park. Dwight Brown was born at Benton, in Scott County, is a native of Southeast Misouri, brought up in a newspaper office as carrier boy, reporter, editor and publisher. Coming in contact with his fellowman in these positions has given him an inner view of human nature that has broadened his mind and made him sympathetic. No man in the State stands higher with the newspaper fraternity of every political belief than does Brown. He was an honored president of the Missouri Press Association, of the Southeast Missouri Press Association, President of the Ozark Chamber of Commerce, served his Sensational District at Jefferson City with credit, was a member of the State Board of Pardon and Paroles, is now President of the State Chamber of Commerce and is now Secretary of State. No man in the State is better fitted from experience than Dwight Brown. Along with his other qualifications he is a Democrat of the 100 percent variety, is a splendid speaker, posseses a fine sense of humor, plenty of common sense and is a polished gentleman.

A visit with Secretary Green of the State Fair, at St. Louis last week, brought some nice compliments for Mrs. Moore Greer of Sikeston who was hostess at the State Building on the Fair Ground last year. If all are living it was our understanding that Mrs. Greer and her maid of Sikeston will be in charge at the 1935 State Fair.

At the press meeting last week C. L., Jr., paid special attention to the program while C. L., Sr., spent most of his time in the lobby slinging the bull. From every section north of the river editors were asking about the crops of Southeast Missouri and financial conditions, etc. It was here that we bragged on our corner of the state in a way that almost staggered our listeners, and we were perfectly sober. We told them no other section of the world could produce the various crops that come from the soil as were grown in Southeast Missouri. Cotton, corn, wheat, oats, rye, alfalfa, clover, lespideza, sorghum cane, pipestem cane, broom corn, sunflowers by the hundred acres, kaffir corn, persimmons, pawpaws, watermellons and canteloupes by the trainload, hickory nuts, walnuts, hazel nuts, wild cats, wild women, wild turkeys, quail, pheasants, deer, raccoon, opossums, frog legs by the bushel, snakes, lizzards and turtles. Then Sikeston has the only bank building erected in the United States during 1934 with nearly three million dollars deposited from five states, enough money to burn a wet hen, and easy to borrow provided you have sufficient security. Then our shoe factory, Scott County Mill and State Highway payrolls brings in outside money that makes times good in this community. No teling what we would have told them with a few drinks under our belt.

Many cities and towns in the state of Missouri have voted bonds to build light and power plants and from PWA funds, large sums have been added. In every single instance the corporation having a monopoly in these cities have obstructed and delayed the building of these plants. The same technique is used as was thrown in the path of progress in Sikeston. A suit to prevent the state auditor from registering the bonds, then a hearing before the Public Service Commision, the State Supreme Court, the shifting of the matter from one jurisdiction to the other, until parties of the first part die. We are afraid to express our opinions of the powers that pass on the ouster proceedings of the Missouri Utilities Co., for fear of being thrown in jail. The rights and wishes of the people should come before that of corporations.

Bailey Named to 28th Circuit Bar Committee

Members of 28 state bar committees who will have authority to hear complaints against lawyers and to file disbarment papers after investigations were appointed Tuesday by the Missouri Supreme Court. Every committee will have four members. One group was chosen in each of the state's 38 judicial circuits.

Ralph Bailey of Sikeston has been named a member for three years of the 28th circuit committee. Others are B. Hugh Smith of Cape Girardeau, chairman, appointed for one year; J. Grant Frye, also of Cape Girardean, chosen for two years; and Senator James C. McDowell, Charleston, appointed for four years.

Throughout the state, the new committee members, serving without pay will assume duties which heretofore have been voluntarily performed by grievance groups of state and county bar organizations. All committees will work under the general chairmanship of Boyle G. Clark of Columbia, formerly president of the Missouri Bar Association. Receipts from the annual $3 license fee recently imposed on attorneys practicing in the state will permit necessary work to be accomplished.

The purpose of this plan is to effect adequate control over attorneys who are guilty of unethical or unprofessional conduct and follows recommendations embodied in the report of a state-wide bar commission and the recent adoption of regulations which increased the standards for admission to the Missouri Bar.

In each of the 38 committees, one member was appointed for a year, a second for two years, a third for three, and the last for four.

The following committee members were appointed in other judicial circuits of Southeast Missouri.

38th: H. C. Riley, New Madrid, one year; Judge John E. Duncan, Hayti, two years; Sharon J. Pate, Caruthersville, three years; E. F. Sharp, New Madrid, chairman, four years.

33rd: Ed L. Abington, Poplar Bluff, one year; L. E. Tedrick, Poplar Bluff, two years; James F. Fullbright, Donophan, three years; L. M. Henson, Poplar Bluff, chairman, four years.

27th: J. P. Cayce, Farmington, chairman, one year; Samuel Bond, Perryvile, two years; Peter H. Huck, Ste. Genevieve, three years. R. H. Davis, Fredericktown, four years.

Homer Gilbert To Play at Lions Thanksgiving Dance

Homer Gilbert and members of his studio orchestra will play at the Thanksgiving night dance which the Lions club will sponsor to raise funds to aid the city's underprivileged children at Christmas time, according to announcements sent out today.

The dance, which will be held at the armory here from 9:30 until 1:30 o'clock on the evening of November 29. promises to be one of the most outstanding of the season since Mr. Gilbert's orchestra has been highly praised and since Sikeston residents will be able to celebrate Thanksgiving here.

Money from the dance will be added to the net profit received from the Lions club Halloween dance and placed in a fund established by members each year for the benefit of underprivileged children.

On Christmas day, 1933, Lions club members distributed a total of 120 chickens, 1500 toys, and 1500 sacks of candy and oranges to children who otherwise would have had inadequate Christmases. They are hoping to be able to donate a similar amount this year, but since the prices of commodities have risen greatly, they will require more money than ordinarily to fill their established quota.

The practice of presenting Christmas gifts to underprivileged children was begun by the Lions about 10 years ago. For several years they only sponsored the movement, obtaining funds for the purchase of gifts from Sikeston merchents.

Disapproving of that method, however, they inaugurated six years ago a policy of raising the funds by means of legitimate entertainment, securing necessary money only by giving to persons who indirectly contributed for the children's benefit a return equal to their donations. Since that time, money for the gifts has been obtained yearly from the net proceeds of two dances, at Hallowe'en and at Thanksgiving.

Admission to the Lions dance November 29, will be $1 for couples and 50 cents for spectators.

Troop 43 Scouts To Collect Toys

Members of Boy Scout Troop, 43 will begin next week a house-to-house campaign to collect broken and discarded toys, according to E. F. Schorle, director of activities of the troop, which is sponsored by the Lions club.

The toys, Mr. Schorle said, will be taken to a workshop in the basement of Harry Young's home, where they will be repaired and painted and otherwise made ready for distribution on Christmas day to Sikeston's underprivileged children.

All toys which are no longer used or which have been temporarily discarded because they were partly damaged will be collected and repaired by the Scouts in order that the Lions club policy of aiding needy children may be continued this year.

Persons who have toys which they will be glad to donate to the club are requested either to notify Mr. Schorle at his office, telephone 62, or his home, telephone 426, or have the toys gathered together so that Scouts may collect them next week.

Retailers Association Membership Campaign to Begin

A drive to secure 100 percent membership in Scott county in a branch organization of the Missouri Retailer's Association will be started this week by George Lough, the state association's chairman for the county, if the weather permits.

Mr. Lough, possibly with the aid of helpers, will visit every retail merchant in the county in an effort to sign each one as a member of the state organization.

A movement for such an organization, begun here early this fall, was endorsed by officers of the Sikeston Chamber of Commerce at a regular meeting held on September 13.

The purpose of the state association, which was itself organized only recently, is to protect Missouri merchants by maintaining officials in Jefferson City who would closely watch proposed legislation that might easily harm business men.

At the Chamber meeting, when the movement was given approval Robert Lamkin of Cape Girardeau, who came here to speak at the session stated that there is a great need for the success of the Missouri Retailers' Association.

The matter which merchants are most vitally interested in now is the pending legislation pertaining to an increase in the state sales tax. Legslators are planning to introduce a bill providing for a two per cent sales tax. The tax is now one half of one per cent.

If they succeed in getting a two per cent tax passed, Mr. Lamkin said when he was here, numerous retailers will be forced to close their establishments since they wlil be unable to absorb the tax in their gross receipts and since, under the present terms of the state constitution, they will be unable to allow their customers to bear part of the increased burden.

Mrs. Beulah Howe and son Dewey, spent the week end visiting in Steele with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Howe. On Sunday Mrs. Howe and her son were honored guests at a dinner given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alf Howe, at which twenty guests were present.

BANK HEAD REPORTS FARMERS REPAYING SHORT TERM LOANS

Repayments have already been received on omer than 90 percent of the short-term loans made this season to farmers in the Sixth Farm Credit District for the production of cotton and discounted by the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Louis.

In this fact, Joseph R. Cosgrove, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank, sees another indication of improved agricultural conditions among farmers of Illinois, Missouri and Arkansas, the three states comprising the Sixth District.

Mr. Cosgrove reports that the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank has discounted cotton loans for a total of $3,107,074, of which only $257,880 remains unpaid, with a large part of this sum not yet due.

The Federal Intermediate Bank does not make loans direct to farmers but discounts agricultural production paper for production credit associations, agricultural corporations, banks, and other primary lending agencies.

FIVE SHREDDERS BEING OPERATED IN COUNTY

Five corn shredders are now being operated in Scott county, according to A. E. Kies, district supervisor of the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction commission's project to provide feed for state farmers living in the areas most affected by the drouth last summer.

Six shredders are running in Mississippi county, three in Pemiscot, and eleven in Cape Girardeau, Mr. Kies said. Nine shredders are being operated in Perry county now, and three more are scheduled to begin work soon.

It is more easy to secure shredders in the northern counties of the district than in those of the extreme part, where preservation of corn fodder has not been attempted in the past.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS HAVE WEEK OF ACTIVITY

Several students and teachers of the Sikeston high school went to Cape Girardeau Wednseday evening to see the performance of Marc Connelly's Pulitzer prize-winning play, "The Green Pastures".

On Thursday afternoon a large delegation drove to Matthews to see the football game played there by the Matthews and Portageville elevens for the championship of New Madrid county, and this afternoon many of them will go again to Cape Girardeau to witness the Kirksville-Cape Girardeau teachers' game.

Tomorrow, several students and at least one teacher will go to the Southeast Missouri State Teachers' College to attend a one-day folk drama school.

KIRK MAY ATTEND 1909 CLASS REUNION AT M. U.

It is possible that George W. Kirk will go to Columbia next week to attend the reunion of the university's graduating class of 1909, of which he is a member.

If he does, his son, Charles Leonard Kirk, who is a student at the university, will help welcome him. The younger Mr. Kirk is one of 12 sons and daughters of members of the class of 1909 who are now enrolled in the university.

On the evening preceding Thanksgiving day an informal reception for the class of 1909 will be held on the mezzanine floor of the Tiger hotel in Columbia. The class reunion will be held in Jesse hall at 10:30 o'clock on picture will be taken in front of Thanksgiving morning. A group the columns of Francsi quadrongle immediately after the reunion.

FARMER OF PEMISCOT DRINKS CARBOLIC ACID

Henry Alexander, 55-year-old farmer of Cottonwood Point was found dead Tuesday on a sandbar near his home. His body had apparently lain there since Saturday, when he disappeared.

Alexander had drunk carbolic acid, presumably because he was despondent and lonely. His body was discovered by Buddy Abbott, a small boy of Cottonwood Point, while he was on a fishing trip.

Funeral services were held Wednesday in Caruthersville. One married son survives.

LAST BUTTONS REMOVED FROM STREET CENTERS

On Tuesday the last of the iron center street buttons were removed from Sikeston's downtown streets and the holes left by their removal filled with concrete. The work of taking the buttons from the streets was begun soon after councilmen authorized the action at a meeting last month.

Harvey Johnson went to Oran on professional business Monday morning.

Ordinance Authorizing Fire Truck Purchase Approved

An ordinance authorizing the purchase of a new fire truck for $5225 cash was unanimously passed by city councilmen when they met for a special session Tuesday night.

The passage of the bill was in accordance with a provision of an committee which was passed by the council on September 21. "All ordinance creating a purchasing purchases amounting in total cost to $300 or more, except fuel oil, must be approved by ordinance, regularly passed by the city council, before such purchase may be made." the act states.

According to the ordinance approved last night, "the said fire truck shall meet all specifications as per contract, herinafter to be signed, and be approved by the Missouri Inspection Bureau.

"The said General Fire Truck Corporation (from whom the truck is being bought) shall post with the City of Sikeston a bond for $7000 to insure the faithful performance of their contract." The truck will not be purchased, the ordinance adds, until all provisions embodied in it are fulfilled.

The fire truck company's contract, which was approved by the inspection bureau before it was sent here, was read at the meeting but not signed. A copy of the ordinance has been mailed to the corporation for the approval of the clause requiring the $7000 bond.

At the meeting Tuesday night W. C. Boardman, street commissioner, was authorized to secure movable signs prohibiting parking in front of the union bus station on Malone avenue between 12 and 7 o'clock and between 5 and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Provisions for the signs followed a request for them made at the meeting Tuesday night by Billy Walker.

Real Estate Office and Beauty Parlor to Occupy Welsh Bldg.

Part of the furniture for the office of the Thrower Real Estate Company, which will be located in the Welsh building on Center street, has already been moved to the firm's new quarters.

The office will be opened soon, it is thought, since Ira Thrower, formerly an associate of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company here, was expected here late this week to arrange final details concerning the establishment of a Sikeston branch.

The Thrower Company, which maintains offices in Cape Girardeau, Kennett, Poplar Bluff and St. Louis, will occupy less than half of the space available for rent in the Welsh building. The other part will be used for a beauty parlor, which will be opened by Sam Graham about December 1.

On Tuseday, workmen constructed beaver board partitions to divide the front part of the vacant building into two office rooms, and began to paint the interior walls yellow.

The two offices will be divided by a small vestibule. The Thrower Company quarters will be located on the east side of the building, and the beauty shop on the west.

The space for the beauty parlor will be much larger than that for the real estate concern, and will be L-shaped. In the front, there will be furniture for a waiting room. The large back part will be set off either by a wall or curtains and will accommodate the equipment necessary for the shop. Mr. Graham will employ at least two experienced operators he said today.

Reserve Feed Loans Available For Stock

Over 365,000 emergency drought loans aggregating $24,000,000 have been made to western and middle western farmers and stockmen since the drought fund appropriated last summer became availbale, Governor W. I. Myers, Farm Credit Administration, said today.

Just over 200,000 of the loans amounting to about $14,000,000 represented initial advances, primarily for the purpose of purchasing feed for livestock and 165,000 supplemental advances have been made aggregating $10,000,000. Ordinarily such loans are made in monthly advances, limited to amounts required per head for the stock to be fed.

"With the approach of severe weather conditions over many sections where feed is short it is very important for borrowers who need feed and have no other source of credit to make application for emergency loans early so there will be no delay in acting upon them due to suddenly changing weather conditions or other unforseen factors," Governor Myers said. "The funds available for the emergency feed loans are limited," he continued, "and no farmer or stockman should borrow or spend unnecessarily for feed; but where the stockman can anticipate his later needs with reasonable certainty, he should apply to be purchased immediately. ply early, whether or not the feed

"In parts of the primary drought areas where winter weather conditions will prevent transportation of feed, range livestock operators may obtain funds to purchase a reserve feed supply, such advances being secured by liens on the reserve supply and on the stock to be fed," the Governor stated. "The monthly advances are made on the basis of the borrower's promissory note.

"In addition to the reserve feed loans," Mr. Myers said, "the borrower may apply for regular monthly allowances and hold his extra two-months' feed supply in reserve for emergency purposes when transportation may be cut off. Then, in cases where the monthly allowances are obtained without interruption and the reserve supply retained through the winter, the latter will take care of feeding needs in February and March next year and under such conditions advances to the borrower for those months will not be necessary."

Work of Preparing Legion Park for Tulip Bulbs Begun

An allotment of numerous imported tulip bulbs will be planted in the American Legion park as soon as the weather permits, according to William F. Woehlecke owner of the Sikeston Greenhouse and originator and sponsor of the project.

On Tuesday afternoon workmen removed the Canna plants which this summer occupied the park's flower beds. Work was stopped Wednesday and Thursday because of the hard rain. Mr. Woehlecke hopes, however, to remove several trees in the pary, to rearrange several shrubbery beds, and to replace shrubbery which has died. He will also create some new beds for the tulips.

ADVANCE NOT ALLOWED TO ELECT POSTMASTER

The appointment of Boyd Jenkins as postmaster of Advance to succeed Mrs. Mayme Prather seemed likely today after the Stoddard county Democratic central committee had declined to allow residents of the town to choose a postmaster by ballot.

More than 816 persons living in Advance were said to have signed a petition requesting permsision to elect one of three men who had ranked highest in a civil service examination.

A total of 13 persons took the tests, Jenkins, August Young, and Wilson Ackert making the best grades. After the county committee had endorsed Jenkins, a bookkeeper for the Richmond Construction Company, the petition was circulated.

Committee members rejected the petition and then sent their recommendation to Senator Bennett Champ Clark.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Taylor and son, Emory, and Mr. and Mrs. Will Ellis are spending a few days in St. Louis this week. Mrs. Ellis will enter hospital for treatment.

W. O. Ellis returned from St. Louis Tuesday, Mrs. Ellis remained at the hospital for further treatment.

5.40 Inches of Rain Fell in 16 Hours Here

The largest rain here in many months was recorded Wednesday when a total of 5.40 inches fell in 16 hours, between 1 o'clock Wednesday morning and 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. Data on the rainfall was gathered by John La Font at the Frisco station.

During the period from Wednesday night until early Thursday morning .30 of an inch fell, making a total 5.70 inches of almost continuous rainfall. On Monday, .27 of an inch was recorded here.

Sewers were taxed with the flood of water, many of them were clogged with fallen foilage, causing the streets to be filled with water almost to the tops of the curbs. Automobiles were stopped by water and mud and pedestrians forced to go far from their routes to avoid wading through ponds, water also flooded many basements.

Near Sikeston, a Wyatt coal company truck was driven off the highway and into a ditch, presumably to miss striking another machine. A tractor belonging to G. B. Greer, taken out to pull the truck from the ditch, was also mired. It was necessary to unload the coal and to secure another tractor to pull both vehicles from the ditch.

No serious damage was reported. The rain, which was welcomed by farmers, was not accompanied either by sereve lightning or by a strong wind.

Blodgett Teacher's Case To Court of Appeals

An appeal to take her case to the Springfield court of appeals was granted to Mrs. Caroline Stebbins Strayhorn Tuesday in the Scott county circuit court. Mrs. Strayhorn filed an appeal to the Springfield court Saturday when her motion for a new trial in the circuit court was overruled by Judge Frank Kelly.

An instructor in the Blodgett schools during the 1932-33 school year, Mrs. Strayhorn lost a suit for the payment of salary which she had filed against the Blodgett school board after a trial during the August term of the circuit court.

The case arose over the fact that Mrs. Strayborn married after she had signed a contract to teach last year. The board, however, had previously enacted a ruling which barred married women from the faculty. Contending that her contract was valid Mrs. Strayhorn, filed suit against the board for failure to pay her $450 for nine months, beginning on August 28, 1933. She was represented at the trial by J. Grant Frye of Cape Girardeau. Blanton & Montgomery of Sikeston served as attorneys for the school board.

On Monday the state's case against Willard Westmoreland for the balance of a fine and costs of $200 imposed on Westmoreland on a charge of bootlegging approximately a year and a half ago was changed to a jail sentence of 20 days, since Westmoreland failed to pay the fine.

When a demurrer, filed by the defendants in the 50,000 damage suit brought in the circuit court by Margie Carle and her father, R. H. Carle, both of Chaffee, against the Southeast Missouri Telephone Company, was presented in court for consiredation, yesterday, the plaintiffs were February 1 to file an amended granted, at their request until petition.

The suit, which will not be tried before March term of court, is an outgrowth of an electrial storm September 11 during which a bolt of lightning splintered a telephone over which Margie was talking in her home. Her face was badly burned and her nose broken. She was reported to have been temporarily blinded and confined in a hospital for some time.

The lightning also broke three window glasses and tore plaster from the dinning wall of the Carle home.

The replevin suit of E. E. Tanner versus W. M. Sprugeon, was dismissed Wednesday because the plaintiff failed to file a bond. The suit developed from an alleged argument between the men concerning the right of lien on a patch of watermelons near Vanduser.

Jewel Love was granted a judgment of $500 against Milem Limbaugh last Thursday after a verdict in a suit instituted following a car accident near Brown Spur last summer. The suit brought against Limbaugh by Minnie L. Kell as a result of the same accident was continued last week to the next term of court.

Fred Arnold, charged with burglary and larceny, was found guilty of petit larceny by a circuit court jury last Friday. He was fined $75 and sentenced to 90 days in jail.

On Saturday, the damage suit filed by Harvey Blackwell against W. O. Finney was taken to the Cape Girardeau court of common pleas on a change of venue, and the injunction suit brought by Virgil Williams against the Carson and Righter truck company to prevent officials from building a new terminal on Highway 61 at Gladys street was taken under advisement.

Myrtle Chaney was granted a divorce from Aaron Alvon Chaney, awarded $30 a month alimony, and given the custody of minor children. An interlocutory decree for divorce granted last term to Martha Lambert from Felix Lambert was made final and complete.

On Wednesday, the divorce action instituted by Lucy Williams against Beulah Williams was taken under advisement. Carly Powers was granted a divorce from Lorene Powers, and De Mova Cunningham was given a divorce from Jesse Cunningham and her name changed to De Mova Reeves. J. O. Penermon, a negro preacher of Sikeston, was granted a divorce from L. B. Penermon.

Yesterday, H. C. Haywood was granted a divorce from Rosa Haywood. In a suit of Vera Holmes versus Raymond Holmes for separate maintenance, a decree was granted by agreement, the plaintiff receiving a judgment for an unspecified amount.

The boys' prizes, in the order of their ranking, will be a complete electric train, an erector set, a tool chest, a large dump truck, a big train coach, a microset, a pair of roller skates, and a sowboy outfit. All the prizes are now on display in a window of the Malone Drug Store.

To enter the contest all children under 12 who want to try for the prizes will be required only to place their names on slips of paper giving the slips to store officials. Because the contest will run only from Saturday until Christmas day, cotnestants are urged to enter the contest before Saturday so that they may be able to start securing votes as soon as possible. No contestant, however, may solicit votes or customers while he is in the store.

In case of a tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

EFFORTS MADE TO OPEN HIGHWAY 60 BY NOV. 29

Efforts are being made by associates of the State Highway office here to have the new strip of concrete on Route 60 east finished so that the highway may be opened for travel to Charleston on Thanksgiving day. Officials now hope that the pavement will be ready for use by football fans who desire to see the Bulldog-Bluejay game next Thursday afternoon. A definite announcement concerning the pavement will be made Monday.

TO SPEND 700 MILLION

Henry Ford will spend $700,000,000 for materials to build a million Ford automobiles in 1935. J. William Foley, Sikeston agent for Ford cars, said this morning. Believing that the return of prosperity is certain, Mr. Ford will "start the ball rolling" by providing employment for manufacturers of materials and Ford automobiles alike and thus greatly stimulate the circulation of money which is vital to prosperity.

NEW EIGHT-TON WAR TANK MAKES 50 MILES AN HOUR

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21—An eight-ton tank capable of making 50 to 60 miles an hour over rough country, was tested by the War Department yesterday through Washington's streets and over the Memorial Highway to Mount Vernon.

Protected by three-quarter inch armour-plate, costing $30,000, it is designed to be the first of a flect of war tanks to go into action ahead of the infantry. The War Department budget probably will provide for construction of several during the next year.

Some amusing mistakes frequently appear in newspapers. The last issue of The Standard aimed to say the sanctum was "brightened" by a visit from a pretty girl, and when part of the edition came from the press, the word "brightened" read "frightened". The press was stopped and the change made, but not until part of the edition was printed. However, we doubt if any one who knows us would think we would be frightened when a pretty girl came to see us.

We have an idea our readers will be greatly interested to know that new atoms have been built up by the use of neutrons. This is a wonderful thing and may cause the corn-hog regulations to be revised.

There is no truth in the story that part of the corn fodder that has been shredded for livestock is to be treated with molasses and some pleasant flavor, chopped and placed in cartons for breakfast food for those on the relief work.

Be certain to visit the Lair Furniture store and see the rustic display made by Sam Wilcox. The front of the Lair store is about 100 feet and ten feet back from the plate glass windows has been placed a white lattace fence five feet high and on this fence that almost hides it, has been placel oak boughs containing vari-colored leaves painted by Jack Frost. Interwoven with the boughs are pipe stem cane with the tassel and green blades. All of this setting makes an ideal place for the paper quail that take their place among the cover. It is a very attractive decoration that will please the human eye and make any quail dog come to a point.

At the recent press meeting a great deal was said of the county press being the moulder of public opinion, that we almost believed it ourself. While hearing compliments from prominent speakers we resolved, while in the meeting to return to our place of business and begin to form some moulds of a high order to try on our people. Then the first rattle out of the box went and wrote a paragraph that probably hurt a father and mother. We are afraid our moulds won't work, or maybe we had better change lead pencils, or have a change of heart.

At heart we would like to be the sort of newspaper man that every community needs and so few have. We would like to have the good will of all, but with the heart now within the body and the head upon our shoulders, there is something lacking some where. To some we are obnoxious and disliked, to some tolerated, and others put up with us. The small children, who are yet to learn the frailties of man, like us for which we are thankful. Possibly the only way in which we can change is to die, and that we do not like to think about.

The appellate court at Chicago has absolved Sally Rand of a year-and-a-half old charge that her fan dance was indecent. The reversal excused Miss Rand from having to serve 10 days in the house of correction and paying a $200 fine for the alleged shock to World Fair visitors in 1933.

Seven carloads of spinach are about to leave Lenexa, Kan., for the markets, to be fed by adamantine mothers, versed in the dietary mysteries, to their helpless families. The dispatch containing this sad information, however, is not without its cheerful note, for it goes on to say that "there is enough more spinach of good quality to load 50 additional cars." Now, we wish the spinach farmers no bad luck, nor do we desire to draw such wrath from Lenexa, as, last April, was vented upon us by Crystal City, Tex., "the recognized spinach capital of the world," when we attempted a few humorous comments on the green stuff. But those 50 carloads that are being left behind give some hope that we are not to become all at once a nation of Nebuchadnezzars.—Post Dispatch.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for their kindness and sympathy during the sudden death of our dear brother, Henry Gullye, and for the beautiful floral offerings. Also, we want to thank Rev. T. T. Hoffman of Cape Girardeau for the last comforting words, and thank the quartet for their beautiful song. Especially do we thank the Dempster Undertaking Company for their kindness.

Mother and Father, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Gulley, Salcedo.

Children, Joe Ann and Gilbert Henry Gulley; wife, Mildred Gulley; Sisters, Mrs. Lela Riley, Magnolia King, and Mrs. Lillie Waters of Sikeston, Mrs. Alma Harmon of Piggott, Ark.; and Mrs. Opal Meyers of Salcedo; Brother, Robert Gulley; Half brothers, Fred Riddle of Dexter and Ezra Riddle of Sikeston.

To the loved ones it was so sudden
Our white lips said,
For we shall miss him,
The beautiful dead.
But God knows best.
We know he watches the sparrows that fall
Hears the sad cry of the sad hearts that call
And wife and family, he loveth them all.
So we can trust for the rest.

GOOD NEWS—BUT DON'T CHEER YET

The National Board of Fire Underwriters reports that the total estimated fire loss for the first nine months of this year was $213,405,000. For the same period last year the loss was $245,351,000—almost $32,000,000 more.

That decrease, of approximately 15 per cent, in fire waste, is good news. But it doesn't give us cause to pat ourselves on the back and praise our care, caution and competence. The fact that over two hundred million dollars worth of property went up in smoke in 9 months amounts to a national disgrace. Americans are still the most wasteful of all peoples when it comes to fire—and by a wide margin.

What caused the destruction of the two hundred million—and, in addition many hundreds of irreplaceable lives- The anwser is easy. People took chances with old or damaged heating plants. They allowed rubbish to accumulate. They stored inflammable liquids in open containers, or near a source of flame. They allowed electric wiring to go unattended—or "repaired" it themselves. They tossed cigarettes and matches away blindly, letting them fall where they might. They allowed dry grass to grow jungle-like on property. And they did a thousand and one similar things that are close to the heart of the fire demon.

If the present trend continues, total fire loss for the year will be in the neighborhood of $285,000,000. Almost every dollar of that waste can be laid to someone's carelessness or ignorance—the unpreventable fire is a very rare article indeed. Are you going to do your small part to make 1935 show a better record?

CORN-HOG PRODUCTION TO BE REDUCED 10% IN 1935

The corn acreage reduction for 1935 will be only 10 percent below the 1932-1933 base average, according to a definite announcement made Monday by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace.

If they wish, however, farmers may reduce their crop further, growing a minimum of 70 percent of two-year base period and receiving benefit payments for the additional cut of 20 per cent.

If normal weather conditions prevail, the total corn production next year will be 250,000,000 bushels above that required to feed livestock, figured on the 90 per cent maximum.

A like reduction of 10 per cent in the number of hogs will also be required of signers of government contracts,. The new reductions are far less than the 20 to 30 percent cuts in corn and the 25 per cent cuts in hogs for 1934.

PEMISCOT DEPOSITORS TO GET 12% PAYMENT

Under a circuit court order, Morrell DeReign, receiver for the closed Citizens Trust Bank of Pemiscot county, will issue a 12 per cent payment to depositors soon after the first of December. The total amount of money to be distributed is $36,000. Two other payments have been made, one in 1930 and a second in 1932.

TREASURY REPLENISHED

While only 27 units of property were sold in Stoddard county recently under the terms of the Jones-Munger tax law, persons owning a total of 180 tracts paid their delinquent taxes the day before the sales began.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Story, Miss Bessie Moore and Harve Sizemore drove to Lilbourn Sunday morning to bring the latter's mother, Mrs. W. J. Sizemore, home with them for a visit to extend through Thanksgiving.

YOU get a real "kick" out of your motor, when your toe touches the starter . . . if the tank is filled with Phillips 66, the greater gasoline.

Your engine starts with split-second speed, even on days of freezing cold. It does so because Phillips 66 is honest high test. And high test is what it takes to swing a cold motor into instant action.

You know that! You also know that Phillips is the world's largest producer of natural high test gasoline. All of which certainly explains why we frankly print in plain figures the high test rating of Phillips 66.

In each of our advertisements, these gravity figures are proof of our statements about Phillips high test . . . are evidence that we fear no comparisons with other gasolines . . . are your guarantee of greater value for your money.

As these figures change from month to month, they reflect the beneficial operation of our pioneer method of custom-tailoring gasoline. CONTROLLED VOLATILITY is the name we give to this process of matching gasoline to climate and location, and we invite you to note how Phillips specifications change as the weather changes.

For more snap and dash . . . more power and miles . . . ever-constant and flashing response to the throttle . . . less noise and knock . . . discover the difference between gasolines by stopping for a trial tankful at any Orange and Black 66 Shield.

Keeping Step With Nature

Autumn with its myriads of beautiful colors in field and forest has so impressed our window dressers with nature's beauty that they have arranged our big front window this week with a background gathered from nearby fields and thickets. The blending of berries, grasses and foilage is very pretty indeed and I gladly give our "boys" credit for the good work. In front is another assembly of beautiful things, not so deftly colored and shaded perhaps as the former, but alluring to lovers of nicely furnished homes. We invite your attention to both pictures—that created by nature's hand and its companion exhibit by our country boy salesman.

"Hell's Broke Loose"

That's the way one floor covering man described present prices on felt base rugs. Being on the watch for a situation of that sort our buyer has just bought 100 or more HIGH GRADE rugs made by one of the largest mills in the country, which we are going to sell at the price of ordinary quality. These are full 54 lb. weight, beautiful patterns and in every way worth the $9.75 formerly asked for them. Take them along until this lot is gone at $7.75.

WILLING YOUTH LOOSES 2 PROSPECTIVE BRIDES

It is the undisputed right of a woman, any woman for that matter, to change her mind for any reason or for no reason.

But when two women change their minds, individually, about the same man, well, sir, it's enought to make a man disgusted with 'em.

If you don't believe it, ask Jimmie Rodgers, address Poplar Bluff, aged 22, and willing.

Jimmie appeared at the office of the recorder of deeds last Saturday and applied for a marriage license. He and a Miss Clark, also of Poplar Bluff wished, he said to be wed. He laid his dollar on the counter and walked out, certificate in hand.

Well, sir, if everything had gone off as specified this would have been a cut and dried double wedding story and that's all. But Miss Clark changed her mind. What if her intended husband did have a yodler in the family, Jimmie Rodgers of record fame being an alleged real cousin of the almost-bridegroom Rodgers. And what, also, of the fact that Rodgers had invested several additional dollars in a trous . . . trouss . . . you know clothes for his intended wife.

She walked out.

But Rodgers, undaunted, came back to the office of Justice of the Peace I. R. Rone and explained that the scheduled double wedding of his friend, Jack Hogan of St. Louis, 22, to Miss Pauline Virginia Hickson, 18 of Poplar Bluff, and himself and girl friend was not yet off. "No, sir,' he said "I've bought this license and I'm going on through the with the wedding. I know another girl here in Poplar Bluff. I've talked with her, and now I'm going out and try to get her in the no'ion."

Rodgers did come back. This time he brought Miss Lucile Goldstein and his original license. Diligent work with an eraser and a pen changed the face of the document, and again the proposed wedding was almost consummated. But not quite.

Miss Goldstein changed her mind.

Mr. Hogan and Miss Hickson were married yesterday afternoon at the office of Judge Rone. Mr. Rodgers and Bertha Hickson, sister of Mrs. Hogan, were witnesses

Mr. Rodgers, downcast and discouraged, brought his slightly worn marriage certificate back to the office of George Seifert, county recorder. "Can I get my money back on this?" he asked.

"No," said the man on the other side of the counter," "don't guarantee 'em not to change their minds."

This morning the registrar's book contains an unusual notation. It says, "Issued, returned but not used."—Poplar Bluff American Republic.

THREE WHO ESCAPED FROM ARKANSAS JAIL DISCOVERED IN BLUFF

Three men who escaped November 9 from the Clay county jail at Piggott, Ark., were discovered in Poplar Bluff Monday night and returned to the jail by Sheriff Jack Wallain.

One of them, John Brackens, 27 years old, was waiting trial on a murder charge at the time of his escape. According to officers, Brackens and his sister held up G. M. Presson last December, the sister beating Presson's head with a blackjack while he was held by Brackens. After Presson died from his wounds, the sister was sentenced to the Arkansas penitentiary.

By voluntarily appearing before a grand jury and confessing to bootlegging, Brackens secured an indictment, conviction and sentence on that charge. New evidence in the Presson case was discovered, however, and Sheriff Wallain secured a holdover warrant for Brackens' release.

Willard Brackens, 19 years old another of the escaped prisoners and his companion, Frank Martin, 20 years old, were jointly charged with robbing several boys and girls as the latter were going to a movie.

Young Brackens was discovered at the Poplar Bluff transient bureau, where he was suffering from a severe case of arthritis which had required treatment by a Poplar Bluff physician. He had registered as Killiam Rumbles after bureau officials had barely obtained sufficient information to fill out a necessary card. Martin was found in a Poplar Bluff home.

The three captured men, together with three others who are still at large, gained their freedom while plumbers were doing repair work at the jail. The escape was effected after they had secured passage into the runaround and then used hacksaws which had been smuggled to them by friends.

HIRED MURDERER GIVEN 10-YEAR PRISON TERM

Pleading guilty to manslaughter in the killing of Lum Mills, Bragg City farmer, Elmer Driskill, 23 years old, was given a 10-year prison sentence Tuesday by Judge John E. Duncan presiding in the Pemiscot county circuit court.

Driskill confessed to the crime soon after he was arrested, but insisted that William McPherson had hired him to murder Mills. Driskill served as the state's principal witness at the trial of Mcpherson, who was sentenced to 50 years in the penitentiary after his hearing in July.

The Catholic Ladies will give a box supper at the Marshall Hotel Monday night at 7:00 o'clock. You are invited.

KENNETT YOUTH KILLED WHILE HUNTING MONDAY

Neal Parker, 17 years old, of Kennett was almost instantly killed at noon Monday when he accidentally shot himself while he was hunting with three young men companions, in some woods near Kennett. One discharge from Parker's shotgun penetrated his abdomen, he died in the woods before he could be taken to town for medical treatmenet.

Carrying a borrowed 12-gauge shotgun, Parker had fired one shot at birds which flew up near trainage ditch number 36. The members of the party had not used their guns.

At a coroner's inquest, held in Kennett Monday afternoon, the victim's companions stated that just before the fatal shot Parker was leaning against a tree with the gun's barrel in his hand and the butt resting on the ground. Soon afterward, as they reached a point a little ahead of the place where Parker was standing, they heard a shot, and turning saw Parker lying on the ground. Two of the hunting companions went to a farm house to summons a physician, but by the time an ambulance had reached the scene of the shooting, Parker was dead.

After the hearing the testimony members of the jury returned a verdict of "death by accidentally shooting himself with his own gun while hunting."

Parker is survived by his father, his stepmother, and a brother, all of Kennett, and a second brother and a sister, both of Whitehall, Ark.

THANKSGIVING DINNER

Few of us who deserve the name, "homemaker", would willingly renounce her privilege and responsibility of preparing the Thanksgiving dinner next week. And on that day set aside by national proclamation, dinner must live up to the mouth-watering traditions of a century—potatoes mashed to snowy whiteness, giblet gravy, savory stuffing, buttered squash, cranberry relish, amber jelly and aromatic pickles, and a turkey basted to perfection.

The fun of Thanksgiving is planning a dinner worthy of the central theme, roast turkey. Of course you've decided whether your turkey will wear a shining, glazed surface (by basting with melted butter and hot water) or whether you'll dredge your bird with flour for a dull finish. But first, have you ordered your turkey? It isn't too late yet to ask your butcher to set aside a choice bird for you. Be sure to have him clean it and to remove the pin feathers and tendons. Then all that's left for you is to wash the fowl inside and out with a damp cloth, rub a little salt in the cavity and stuff it loosely with the dressing you select. Old-fashioned New England sage - and - breadcrumb dressing is by far the most famous, though oyster and chestnut dressings also have an early American origin. When the turkey is stuffed and trussed, it may be placed in a refrigerator of safely cold temperature until roasting time, even a day before Thanksgiving. In fact, much of the preparation for modern Thanksgiving dinners is made the day before, thanks to modern refrigeration. Vegetables, for example, are prepared and sometimes even cooked the previous day. Poe-filling, frozen dishes, the giblets for the gravy, cranberry relish, are made ready the day before, and early Thanksgiving Day the preparation of the cocktails and salad is out of the way.

Looking for ideas? A cranberry cocktail will start the Thanksgiving feast in true Cape Cod style if cranberries aren't already cast in the role of relish. Other refreshing beginners are seafood cocktails, spiced tomato juice, sections of grapefruit and orange chilled in ginger ale, and mint ice on crushed pineapple. Something new in an appetizer to serve with the cocktail is large, crisp potato chips spread with a seasoned anchovy or chicken liver paste. A simple salad of greens with French dressing is most appropriate between the substantial meat and dessert courses at Thanksgiving dinner. Endive and romaine will be cutting in on the popularity of head lettuce for Thanksgiving salads, and avacado pears will lend a delicate and unusual flavor to many Thanksgiving reparts.

For dessert, Indian pudding or a plum pudding is quite within the Thanksgiving tradition. The pudding may be old-fashioned, served with hard sauce, or jellied in the modern manner. Cranberries apply for a position in the pies, if not already employed. But if you're using pumpkin pies, serve with unsweetened whipped cream topped with nests of tempting golden honey!

Thanksgiving Proclamation

By the Mayor of the City of Sikeston

"I, G. W. H. Presnell, mayor of the City of Sikeston, hereby designate Thursday, the 29th day of November, 1934, as a day of thanksgiving for the people of Sikeston.

"Thus to set aside in the autumn of each year a day on which to give thanks to Almighty God for the blessings of life is a wise and reverent custom, long cherished by our people. It is fitting that we should again observe this custom.

"During the past year we have been given courage and fortitude to meet the problems which have confronted us in our national life. Our sense of social justice has deepened. We have been given vision to make new provisions for human welfare and happiness, and in a spirit of mutual happiness we have co-operated to translate vision into reality.

"More greatly have we turned our hearts and minds to things spiritual. We can truly say, 'What profiteth it a nation if it gain the whole world and lose its own soul.'

"With gratitude in our hearts for what has already been achieved, may we, with the help of God, dedicate ourselves anew to work for the betterment of mankind.

"In witness where of, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the City of Sikeston to be affixed.

"Done in the City of Sikeston this 20th day of November in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and thirty-four and of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and fifty-ninth."

(Signed)
G. W. H. PRESNELL,
Mayor.

O. J. Ferguson, editor of the Democrat-News at Fredericktown, who for more than a year has been chairman of relief work with all its ramifications for Madison County, resigned November 7th. It's no wonder he resigned. No man who expects to have time to make a living can serve as chairman unless he happens to be on a public corporation payroll where time does not eat into the living. The abuse that is heaped upon those trying to administer relief fairly and honestly, is a crime. If a person gives all his time, energy and everything else to this work he is accused of being a common thief and a political despot. The time is going to come in the relief work when no one who expects to maintain their honor will have anything to do with local administration. It is too bad that many of our people will listen to scandal mongers and jump at conclusions based solely upon malicious lies to their own hurt and injury.—Lead Belt News.

Beef Canning Plant to Be Opened at Chaffee

The government beef canning factory which is being established in Chaffee will be opened in about 10 days, Lewis Flewelling, county certifying officer, said today.

Since the opproval of the project was made by the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission in Jefferson City recently, preliminary preparations for the opening of the cannery have been made rapidly.

Fred Alvey of Chaffee will serve as superintendent of the plant, Mr. Flewelling said, and 33 experienced workers will be employed to can meat. The plant will be operated until March 15.

Some equipment formerly used in a vegetable cannery in Chaffee has been moved to the meat plant near the transient bureau headquarters and other equipment, including a large boiler, zinc to cover the tables, and knives, have been bought.

Meat brought to the factory will be inspected at least once a week, and possibly twice, by a licensed veterinarian, and employes of the plant will be frequently examined by a registerd nurse.

All beef canned in the plant will be handled for farmers of Scott, Mississippi and Cape Girardeau counties on a 50-50 basis. Only a few of the cattle purchased under the government's drouth relief project will be slaughtered and canned at the factory, since the Chaffee plant will be primarily a custom cannery for the use of farmers living in the three counties mentioned above.

Members of farm families who have previously been forced to use pork, for the most part, during the winter months, will now hvae an opportunity to secure canned beef at reasonable rates. Mr. Flewelling said. Farmers will be required only to feed their cattle from the time they reach the plant until they are slaughtered. Their returns will be more than adequate, officials think. Those who have cattle which they do not care to feed this winter are urged to notify Mr. Alvey at Chaffee.

The part of the beef which is retained at the cannery will be distributed this winter to relief families living n the counties from whch the cattle are sent to the plant.

WOMAN'S CLUB

The regular meeting of the Womans Club was held at the home of Mrs. C. H. Denman on Tuesday afternoon with a large attendance. After reports of committees were read, Mrs. Wm. Foley read a Thanksgiving poem, and Mrs. Arthur Reese gave a splendid paper on Thanksgiving.

Plans are being made for an open meeting to be held at the Marshall Hotel in December.

HUNTER USED CARBIDE, WATER TO SMOKE COON

Efforts of Noah Brinker of this city, 40 year old professional hunter and fisherman, to "gas" a coon out of a hollow tree instead of smoking him out, may cost him his eyesight.

Brinker, who lives on North Front street, and his 15 year old son, Eddie Lee, were hunting west of Poplar Bluff Monday night and their dog treed a coon in a big hollow tree, Brinker decided on a new wrinkle in the coon extraction line. He placed a quantity of carbide inside the aperture at the tree base and poured water on it, on the theory that the gas generated would cause Mr. Coon to leave his place of refuge.

Brinker waited quite a while but no coon emerged. When he thought the gas fumes had time to dissipate he stuck his head in the tree hole to try and take a look upwards. Attached to his cap was a carbide light. There was a terrific explosion. Flames enveloped Brinker's head and he was knocked backward several yards. The tree trunk was split and a fragment of it struck Eddie Lee on the leg, inflicting a bruise.

The boy led his blinded father to their car and drove him home. Dr. William Spaulding found that both Brinker's eyeballs were burned. He stated this morning that he might be able to save the man's sight but that both eyes were in a serious condition.

"That explosion sounded like a stick of dynamite' Eddie Lee said yesterday. "It sure tore things up".

Brinker is married and has a family. Besides the eye injury he suffered burns about the face and neck.

No one knows what became of the coon.—Poplar Bluff American Republic.

WARNS AGAINST USING UNFINISHED HIGHWAY

Contractor E. L. Markham last week warned motorists not to use Highway 74 between Dutchtown and Cape Girardeau because of damage it will do to new surfacing now being applied. On two nights last week some vehicles got around barricades and traveled over the road, damaging the new surfacing near Dutchtown so that it had to be repaired. He said prosecution will be made if any persons are found driving over the road until it is opened for travel.

Turkey Left-Overs With Appeal

THANKSGIVING DINNER is not always the greatest test of a housewife's skill and ingenuity. The form of this meal is so bound by tradition that we do not like to forge ahead and try too many strange new dishes when the family expects the grand old favorites of other years. So it is well to stick to the familiar dinner with the lordly Thanksgiving fowl as the center of all interest. But when the feast is done there remains a real problem to test the imagination and skill of the meal planner. This once proud turkey, after the inroads of a hungry family, is just a sorry little bird stripped of its glory. Like a stage star in the zenith of his popularity, he seems to have said "Hail and Farewell" in his one brief moment. But it will be the end if a successful meal planner is backing this bird. She can promote successful comebacks down to turkey soup and choice bones for the dog. These recipes will make dining on turkey leftovers a delight from their first to their last appearance.

BY JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

Turkey a la King—Melt 3 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 3 tablespoons chopped green pepper and 3 tablespoons chopped pimientos, and cook slowly until slightly brown. Add 3 tablespoons flour and blend well. Add 1 medium tin Cream of Mushroom Soup and ¼ teaspoon salt, and stir constantly until thick. Add 1 tablespoon India Relish and 2 cups diced cooked turkey, and heat thoroughly. Add 2 well beaten egg yolks, and continue cooking for 2 to 3 minutes. Serve in patty shells or on slices of buttered toast.

Creamed Turkey with Olives on Toast—Melt 4 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 4 tablespoons flour, and blend well. Add 2 cups milk or thin cream, salt and pepper to taste, and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add 2 cups cold cooked turkey, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley and ¼ cup sliced Stuffed Spanish Olives. A beaten egg yolk stirred in adds to the richness of the dish. Serve on buttered toast or on crisp crackers.

Turkey Club Sandwiches with Bacon—Toast bread quickly so that it will not be hard, and butter generously. Spread with slices of cold turkey, then with crisp slices of broiled bacon. Add a leaf of lettuce and spread with Mayonnaise. Cover with another slice of toast and serve accompanied by Tomato Ketchup or Chili Sauce.

Turkey and Peas En Casserole—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a pan and add 2 tablespoons flour and mix well. Add 1 cup turkey broth and ¼ cup Tomato Ketchup and cook until boiling, stirring constantly. Season with salt and pepper. Place 2 cups cold turkey and 1 cup cold cooked peas in alternate layers in a baking dish or pan and pour the hot sauce over them. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and dot over with butter. Bake in a moderate oven until brown, and serve.

Deviled Turkey—Sprinkle cold cooked turkey (wings, second joints, drum sticks, etc.) with salt, pepper and flour. In a skillet, place 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons Chili Sauce, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce and 1 teaspoon Prepared Brown Mustard. Fry the turkey in the skillet and when delicately browned add 1 cupful hot turkey broth and simmer for five minutes. Sprinkle with chopped parsley and serve.

Turkey with Quick Mushroom Sauce—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 3 tablespoons flour and blend well. Add 1 medium tin Cream of Mushroom Soup and stir until thickened. Add 1½ to 2 cups cold diced turkey and 4 sliced hard cooked eggs. Add salt and pepper, if desired, but since the turkey was seasoned when cooked, and the Mushroom Soup is so carefully seasoned, little additional seasoning will be required. Serve on biscuit straws, which are made by rolling biscuit dough to not more than ½ inch in thickness, then taking a sharp knife and cutting the dough into thin strips—about ½ inch wide and 3 inches long. Bake as for biscuits in a hot oven (425° F.) until delicately browned (from 5 to 8 minutes). Place the biscuit straws on a platter, pour the turkey with Mushroom Sauce over top, garnish with parsley or with Sweet Gherkins or Spanish Olives.

BUTLER COUNTIAN KILLED WHILE CUTTING TIMBER

A broken limb which fell while he and another man were cutting timber near Fairdealing, struck and fatally injured Joe Ferguson, about 21, son of J. P. Ferguson, Butler county farmer, late yesterday afternoon.

Young Ferguson's companion picked him up and took him to his home. The injury, according to Joe Gardner, who resides near the Fergusons, was not at first believed to be so serious, but after the young man was taken to his home he lapsed into unconsciousness and died at 4:30 p. m.

The accident, according to information reaching here, occurred at about 2 p. m.

Residents from that community who were here today said the limb struck Ferguson on the head and back, probably causing fracture of the skull. He was knocked to the ground but did not lose consciousness until after he had arrived at his father's home.

Funeral services, it is said, are scheduled to be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Ferguson farm.

J. R. Reynolds, coroner of Butler county, said this afternoon he had not been advised of the death, but that he would conduct an investigation. He said inasmuch as the young man died in Butler county it is a case for this county to handle.

Officers said they do not doubt but that the death was purely accidental, but the regulations call for an investigation into such cases.

Coroner Reynolds late today learned, he said, that Ferguson died in a hospital at Doniphan. He had not verified the report, however.—Poplar Bluff American Republic.

BRINEY ENDORSED FOR STODDARD COUNTY POST

Kipling Briney, former prosecuting attorney of Stoddard county, was endorsed Wednesday night for the position of county treasurer and ex-officio collector to succeed the late Charles Buck. The endorsement was made by members of the Stoddard county Democratic central committee after a long session, during which they heard numerous applicants and friends of applicants.

That Briney will be appointed seems certain since Governor Guy B. Park has stated he will name the person recommended by the county committee.

As county tax attorney Briney a resident of Bloomfield, has had almost complete charge of the collector's and treasurer's office for a year since Mr. Buck was too ill to care for his work.

FOLK DRAMA SCHOOL TO BE HELD IN CAPE NOV. 24

The fourth annual school of folk drama for Southeast Missouri high school teachers and students will be held at the district teachers' college in Cape Girardeau on Saturday, according to a recent announcement.

The school, which 120 persons attended last year, is a forerunner of an annual folk play writing contest open to all high school students of the district. Ordinarially, the play competition ends during the first week in January and winners are announced a short time later. Before spring, the outstanding plays are staged at the college and additional awards given for presentation. Last year, Gwendolyn Duncan, a Sikeston high school student, won first prize in the play writing contest with her one-act play, "Gold Earrings". In other years during which the competition has been held, Sikeston pupils have received special mention.

The school this year has been divided into classes of two kinds, backgrounds and technique. They will be held simultaneously.

The combined programs for the morning meetings will include the following events: a discussion of the technique of playwriting by Prof. Lealon N. Jones; a talk of "District Events of Dramatic Significance" by Dean Vest C. Myers; a reading from a folk study, "Home Folks", by Ned Emery, a college student; and a talk by W. A. Ownbey on "Ozark Reminiscences". Prof. Jones, Dean Myers, and Mr. Ownbey are all members of the college faculty.

In the afternoon Miss Maxine Isley of Blodgett will discuss technique further; illustrative readings will be given by students of the college high school; and Dr. A. C. Magill will speak on "Here and There in Southeast Missouri."

At the conclusion of the group meetings, a general session will be held for all persons attending the school. At this gathering, Miss Martha Shea will suggest possible developments of plot ideas given her and a one-act folk play by Prof. Jones, "Party Line", will be presented.

Several Sikeston high school students, accompanied by at least one instructor, will attend the school.

RELIEF OFFICIALS RUSH PLANS TO AID FARMERS

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov 21—Burned out farmers, faced with carrying through their livestock until the next grazing season, are being aided by the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission.

Wallace Crossley, Relief Administrator, is mobilizing stockmen and poultry men, and others interested in their welfare, in a vast feed conservation program. He started it in August, when it was apparent that nature, with diabolical cunning, had done irreparable damage to grain crops.

While farmers were reading a tale of ruin in the whitening tassels in the corn fields, Mr. Crossley and his advisors, looking forward to a lean winter, realized the value of the grainless corn as a roughage feed. Immediately, the Relief Administration provided a market for fodder. Many a farmer who saw only loss in his cornfield took hope.

To date, 166,739 acres of fodder have been purchased by the Relief Administration alone, and thousands of farmers have been led to put up their fodder.

William T. Angle, director of livestock and feed for the relief administration, estimates that Missouri has conserved the cutting and shocking of 90 per cent of all the corn-fodder grown that was worth preserving.

Angle is making plans to process a considerable portion of the fodder. Molasses, cottonseed, salt, and calcium will be added to make a better balanced stock ration.

This fodder has been conserved primarily for the use of persons that secure feed relief assistance through the relief administration. These are farmers who are unable to obtain through purchases or loans feed for their livestock. Their feed needs are $25.00 or less a month.

The Relief Administration also made available seed stocks for fall pasturage.

Even with fall pasturage and the conservation of roughage, a survey shows that Missouri may still need additional roughage from other sources. Should winter close in severely, thereby eliminating the use of wheat, rye, and barley pastures, the livestock feeder will be in serious difficulty.

Normally, Missouri stockmen feed 180,000,000 bushels of corn annually. This year, Missouri produced about one-tenth of that supply. The quality of the corn produced is so inferior that half of it is usless for poultry feeding and many other purposes. Practically the same situation prevails in other states where corn crops aggregate approximately 1,480,000,000 bushels—the smallest corn crop since 1881.

Fodder and molasses-processed fodder will help offset this loss.

NAVAL HUMOR

"You say you served in the World War?" said the restaurant manager as he sampled the new cook's first soup.

"Yes, sir. Officers cook for two years, and wounded twice."

"You're lucky. It's a wonder they didn't kill you."

"I should like to buy some nice new novels, please".

"Do you wish something light, asked the clerk."

"It doesn't matter, really, I have my car with me."

Mother: "Remember my boy, your father was a boatswain's mate."

Son: "What does that make me, mother?"

Mother: "That means you must be a gentleman, my son."

Son: "Yes, I suppose somebody must save the family name."

Captain: "So, you're overleave because you had your car overhauled. What has the overhauling of your car to do with it?"

Seaman: "Well, you see Captain, it was a speed cop that overhauled it."

Scotch Sailor: "Doctor, what can you do to prevent my being seasick?"

Ship's doctor: "Have you got a dime?"

Scotch Sailor: "Yes".

Fireman: "Did you?"

Seaman: "She certainly did."

Old Salt: "I am going to tell you a story that will make your hair curl."

Scotty: "Hoot Mon! Wait until I get my wife. She wants a finger wave."

Neighbor: "What was the sporting editor doing at Jones house this morning? I didn't know he was a sport."

Eyewitness: "He isn't; he just ran over his mother-in-law."

Blonde: "What's the age limit for sailors?"

Brunette: "Sister, a sailor is the limit at any age.

2nd Gob: 'None of it".

1st Gob: "Lucky stiff, how come?"

FIX CARS—NOT TICKETS

"With much fixing of automobiles and no fixing of tickets, there should be a material reduction in Chicago's motor vehicle death rate," said Mayor Kelley in opening a new "safety lane" in which automobiles are given tests to determine mechanical safety.

Chicago's experience with the lane bears that out. During the first week of its operation, 73 per cent of all cars passing through it failed to earn the safety "O.K." The bulk of them had defective brakes, many had wheels out of alignment, while lack of proper lights, mirrors, windshield swipes and horns caused the failure of the rest.

It was then complained that the tests were too stringent, and that only cars in first class condition were able to pass. The tests were then modified to give automobiles in only fair shape a chance. Even when this was done, 40 per cent of the cars going through the tests failed to meet specifications. It is probable that the percentage of Chicago cars which are unsafe mechanically is higher than this, inasmuch as the owner of a machine whose condition is obviously bad would not subject his car to the tests.

Portland, Oregon, has recently carried on similar examinations, under direction of state police. The experience has been about like that of Chicago, around half of the cars examined proving to be unsafe in one or more fundamentals.

The unsafe automobile is almost as great a hazard to the public as the reckless driver. Every city interested in reducing the horrible toll of street and highway fatalities should carry on automobile inspections—and then see to it that defects are corrected. In these days of high speeds and super-highways, there is no room for the car with brakes that won't hold, lights that won't illuminate, and horns that won't sound.

The Catholic Ladies will give a box supper at the Marshall Hotel Monday night at 7:00 o'clock. You are invited.

THE WATCH OUT! Wolves are masquerading in sheep's clothing these days! Men's clothes represented as "all wool" but containing sometimes as much as 80% cheap substitutes, are being sold widely. They look all right at first, but fade, shrink and pucker. To be sure of pure all-wool, look for the Trumpeter label

YES— ADULTERATED FABRICS FREQUENTLY ARE REPRESENTED AS ALL-WOOL

Code Authority challenged Hart Schaffner & Marx to prove it . . . they did—

THE above statement appeared in one of the advertisements over the signature of the store which distributes Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes in B_____, a large eastern city

The local Retail Code Authority promptly ordered the store to submit proof that clothes made of adulterated fabrics were being sold as all wool, or print a retraction

Hart Schaffner & Marx sent an expert to get the proof. He took a witness along to verify his statements, and bought suits in six stores in the city of B_____

here's what he found:

STORE "A" Suits in window tagged as 100% wool. Represented by salesman as all wool. Tested 21% cotton by weight

STORE "B" Suit in window tagged as all wool. Salesman represented it as all wool and warned against cheap substitutes. Tested 25% cotton by weight

STORE "C" Suit represented by salesman to be all wool. Tested 26% cotton by weight

STORE "D" Suit represented by salesman to be all wool. Tested 44% cotton by weight

STORE "E" Suit represented by proprietor as all wool worsted. Tested 51% cotton by weight

STORE "F" Suit represented by proprietor as all wool worsted. Tested 81% cotton by weight

we repeat—

The markets ARE full of clothes made of adulterated fabrics

Clothes made of adulterated fabrics frequently ARE represented as all wool

No adulterated fabrics are used in Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes

One way to be sure you are getting all-wool fabrics is to come to this store, which sells Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes, and look for the Trumpeter label

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND

Director, Physical and Health Education, New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Spring Fever

Say "spring fever" to most adults and they think of sulphur and molasses. Although such so called tonics and blood purifiers are gradually, and deservedly, passing out of general use, the fact remains there is a condition which we came to know as "spring fever."

In reality, spring has nothing to do with it. Winter is the season at fault. We are shut in more and subjected to colds, sore throats, and the like during the winter. We take less exercise and receive less sunshine. We lack quantities of green vegetables and fruits in our diets. By the time spring rolls around, the reserves of strength and energy are approaching low tide.

We speak of being "run-down" or "tired-out." And that is what it is—a mental and physical "let down," for children as well as adults. But the answer is not medicine. Send the child out of doors; let him get sunshine; bring on the fresh vegetables and fruits. If there isn't a pick-up, by all means consult your physician, for the "let down" may have brought on something more serious.

"Desserts," an important matter where children are concerned, will be discussed by Dr. Ireland next week.

BARNETT GIVEN LIFE FOR SLAYING RIPLEY FARMER

Ed Barnett, a former convict, who farmed near Doniphan, was given a life sentence in the state penitentiary Monday, when he pled guilty before Judge Robert I. Cope in the Ripley county circuit court to killing D. M. Burke on May 7 of this year.

After Barnett had stated he was guilty of the murder, Judge Cope outlined the case, which he termed a cold-blooded slaying, then added that since the prisoner had confessed he should be given some clemency. Barnett had nothing to say.

In his original confession to the murder, Barnett contended that he killed Burke for a promised $25 offered by Orrison McKiney, a farmer neighbor of the slain man. McKinney, however, was acquitted after a three-day jury trial in the Butler county circuit court last month.

Burke was killed from ambush as he was watering his mules at sunset. At the Doniphan hospital, where he was taken for treatment, it was discovered that the charge from a shotgun had entered his body on the right of the abdomen.

At the time, the motive for the slaying was believed to have centered around about two and a half aces of land, the ownership of which both Burke and John McKinney, Orrison's father had claimed for several years.

According to Barnett's confession, Orrison had convinced the former convict that Burke intended to kill him and that it would be wise for him to strike first. Orrison, Barnett said, slipped his father's shotgun from the McKinney home while the elder man was tending his bees, and placed the weapon in a designated hiding place near a spring. Barnett found it, he said, shot Burke, and then returned it to the spring. Orrison was said to have taken the gun back to the house then. Barnett was never paid the $25, he said.

The Ripley county courtroom was filled with spectators, who went to Doniphan to hear the disposition of Barnett's case.

Special searchlights which are not ruined when submerged to depths of over 200 feet are now used by submarines. The inside of the light is allowed to flood, the water draining out when the submarine comes to the surface, the mirror and the lens are not damaged. Special bulbs are made to withstand the high pressure as in ordinary incandescent light bulb will break when submerged to a depth of 200 feet.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED BEFORE

Various accidents beset Pop Clark's St. Louis Cardinals in the pennant race—their gloves are doped, an attempt is made to bribe Pop's new pitcher, Larry Kelly, to lose games and when he refuses he is injured in a taxi "accident," so he's ordered off the diamond for two weeks. And then Larry, jealous of Dunk Spencer, his rival for Pop's daughter, Frances, threatens to prevent Dunk from keeping a tentative date with her, and during a game at home Dunk is shot dead just as he approaches the plate with the run that would have won the game. Moreover, gambler Joe Karnes stands to lose $1,000,000 if the Cardinals win the pennant, and Henry Ainsley will lose an opportunity to get the franchise away from Pop. With the murder of Dunk, the police are called in.

CHAPTER VII

Jimmie Follows a Hunch

"Wait a minute," said Holmquist. "Yeah, I remember now: I thought I heard a bee buzzin' around my head, and I tried to shoo it—"

"What the...!" exclaimed Grogan in exasperation. "Honest, Chief... We got a moider on our hands, and he shoos a bee!"

"Can I ask him a question, Loot?" demanded Jimmie Downey.

"Sure. Go ahead."

"Ever heard a bullet in flight, Nils?"

"No."

Lieutenant Cato flung out impatiently: "What's it all leading to?"

"I think he heard the bullet, Loot. Sometimes they make a buzzing sound. A thirty-thirty can make a sound just like a bee."

Cato considered Jimmie's words a moment and then ordered Grogan to take the pitcher out on the diamond. "Have him show you where he was standing and where Spencer dropped. Take Downey along. Get a line on where the bullet came from."

"Okay, Chief," grumbled Grogan, and muttered to himself: "'Some-times they make a buzzing sound!' Nerts!"

"Wasn't there a lot of ill-feeling among the players, Miss Clark?"

As they left Pop's office they passed Frances being escorted in by a policeman.

Holmquist took up the position where he stood as Spencer fell, and they figured that if the bullet that killed Dunk Spencer had come close enough to the pitcher for him to hear the buzz, it must have come from a building to the left of the diamond and back of the pitcher's position. It was too dark to see well, but the policemen who traced a line from where Dunk fell past the pitcher's post ended up against the wall by a warehouse.

"Looks like an inside job," said Pat Patterson, grounds-keeper. "One of the players made a threat against Dunk——"

"Hold on there," said Grogan. "Start at the beginning and let's have all you know—in your own words."

"Well, I had lunch at the Busy Bee——"

"There's that bee again!" snorted Grogan.

"—then I came directly to the grounds, talked to the newspaper boys, said 'Hello' to Dunk Spencer, and he said he had a date with Miss Clark. He said Kelly was sore——"

"You mean the pitcher, Larry Kelly?" Grogan demanded.

"Yeah, and Dunk said Kelly was sore and was goin' to try and stop him—or something like that. They had words. He said Kelly threatened him. Swore he'd see to it that he didn't keep the date with Miss Clark."

"We'll get around to him later," said Grogan.

Jimmie Downey touched Patterson's arm. "Pat, what's that building over there?" He pointed to the one from which they figured the shot had been fired.

"Dunno. Never been up there."

Grogan ordered two policemen to get up on the roof of the building and see what they could find, but one of the men whispered hoarsely: "Sarge, look!" and pointed towards the dugout where a dim figure could be seen moving furtively along, apparently searching for something on the ground. Grogan silently motioned for his men to divide and circle about the mysterious figure. As the man was about to disappear in the shadow of the dugout the police sprang forward and grappled with him. Grogan flashed a light on the prisoner and Patterson cried out: "It's O'Toole!"

"Whadda ya mean an umpire and yer all right? Bring him along." Grogan led the way back to Pop's office.

Lieutenant Cato in the meantime was grilling Frances. She was nervous and fidgety, but answered spunkily.

"Wasn't there a lot of ill-feeling among the players, Miss Clark?"

"No. Of course, they had their little quarrels."

"Didn't Spencer have one?"

"One? What—what do you mean?"

"Never mind. Were all the members of the team present at the game?"

"Yes—that is I—"

Cato thrust out his jaw. "Sure, I thought so! So Larry Kelly wasn't there?"

"He didn't have to be. He wasn't working."

"Didn't you promise Spencer a date for tonight—if he won the game?"

Frances hesitated nervously before she replied: "Yes."

"And Kelly knew about it?"

"Yes, of course he knew about it," flared Frances. "But if you think Larry Kelly would kill a man on account of a thing like that, you're crazy!"

"Never heard of such a thing as a jealous man shooting his rival, did you, Miss Clark?"

Cato's thoughts were given a new angle when a policeman entered the office with Larry Kelly in tow. Before questioning him, Cato sent Frances out of the room, and she gave Larry a quick, panicky look.

"Now, Kelly, you knew Spencer had a date with Miss Clark, didn't you?"

"Yes—if he went good today."

"Burned you up a little, didn't it?"

"I guess I was pretty sore," Larry admitted.

"Yeah? Where were you during the game?"

Larry hesitated a moment. "Just wandering around town."

"You can prove that, I suppose?"

"Well, I don't know that I can."

"You wanted your team to win, didn't you?"

"Sure."

"And you knew how much this game meant—and you didn't have interest enough to stick around and watch it."

"I wanted us to win all right, but—well, Spencer was a good player, but this time I didn't want to be around when he was taking the bows."

"Especially if it meant he was going to take your girl, too."

"One game wouldn't mean that he'd take any girl."

"No? You saw to that, didn't you?"

Larry jumped to his feet in angry protest. "Now, listen, you——" But Jimmie Downey entered the office and went swiftly to Cato.

"I just got a hunch, Loot. Will ya——"

"Yeah, you reporters always got a hunch the police are wrong."

"I never fooled you yet, did I?"

"No, but that doesn't mean you haven't tried. Whatdaya want me to do?"

"Let me follow it up—give me some sort of authority—and if I'm right, let me break the story ahead of the other boys."

Cato thought over the proposition quickly. "Son, if you can bring in the guy that did this, you can write your own ticket."

"Loot, you're a sensation."

Half an hour later Jimmie Downey walked into Joe Karnes' richly furnished office, and sat down across the desk from the gambler, while Max Feldstam stood watchfully in the background.

"About this killing of Dunk Spencer this afternoon, Karnes——"

"Why do you come to me about that?" demanded Karnes coldly.

"Well, I figure you'd been bettin' on the Cardinals to lose the pennant. I'm not making any accusations, ya understand, Joe——"

"That is unimportant," shrugged Karnes. "If you know anything, spill it."

"I know this, Joe—you've got a heavy—er—investment in the baseball situation—something close to a million——"

"How do you know that?" snapped Karnes.

"What does a newspaper man get paid for? For finding out things, Joe. You were in Cincinnati when Kelly found ten G's on his bed; and you were in Cincinnati when Kelly's taxicab accidentally stumbled into a ditch. And you're here in St. Louis when Dunk Spencer's bumped off."

"So were you. So what? What're you here for?"

"Purely in the line of duty. I want an exclusive on which of Pop Clark's players is going to get it next."

"You're not by any chance accusing me of murder?"

"Not yet. But I know how far you'd go for a million dollars."

"Then don't you think it would be prudent to attend to your own business?"

"That's what I am doing. The boys in the club are friends of mine, and I'm anxious that nothing happens to any more of them."

"Well?"

"I'm just going to hang around—see who comes and goes—maybe get a line on how you spend your vacation. I'm just telling you in case something more does happen."

"I'm afraid that's going to be rather inconvenient, Downey."

"Not at all. I've got plenty of time."

"You say I've got heavy dough against the Cardinals. Skip that. But I've other interests that I can't afford to have you monkeying with. We're going to take care of you right here until the series is over. Then you'll find yourself coming out of a week's drunk, in Boston, and can't prove anything. Max, show Downey to his room with plenty of liquor."

THE UNUSUAL

Howard Hanley, 22, a messenger, was riding a bicycle on a Joilet, Ill., street which had been roped off. As he approached the rope, George Erb, a city official, struck it accidentally with his automobile, causing it to snap. The rope hurtled through the air, wrapped around Hanley's neck and threw him to the street. His skull was fractured and he died.

URGES CONTROL OF STREAM POLLUTION

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 18—The State Planning Board, in its preliminary report, recommends a stream pollution survey and a subsequent control program in Missouri as a part of its plan to conserve natural resources.

The increasing use of the 16,000 miles of streams for recreational purposes is one of the important reasons for investigating stream pollution, the report states. The installation of sanitary sewerage systems should be encouraged.

Nineteen cities, with 40 percent of the state's population, discharge raw sewage into the Missouri and Mississippi rivers, it was found. This pollution problem has not become so acute as endanger fish life or create a nuisance, but the bacterial contamination is placing an ever increasing load on the water purification plants n cities depending upon these streams for their water supply.

Of 773 incorporated communities in Missouri, only 140 of these have sewerage systems and only 69 have treatment plants, about one third of which are adequate to prevent pollution, the survey revealed. The State Planning Board recommends that a commission be given the power to control the use of streams for water supply and discharge of waste, since health authorities were found to have virtually no control over the water of the state at present.

It was found that more than $47,000,000 has been spent in drainage and flood control in Missouri exclusive of the expenditure of the Federal government on rivers. "Much of it has probably not been spent wisely, the entire problem of land use is considered", the report says: observing further that, "in some cases the drainage projects have increased the flood problem at other points, thereby forcing additional land into the drainage district."

The drainage problem was described as "complex' and as one that should have careful and detailed study."

Opportunities for water power development in the Ozarks is stressed with estimates that only 250,000 of the available 600,000 horsepower has been developed. The economic value of this power does not lie wholly in its use as a force of energy the report says, but "at least partly in the fact that it conserves fuel which otherwise would be used, and thus increase land values."

HOG CALLER FRUSTRATES DRY RAIDERS

The long drawn out "Pig-o-oooe-e" of a hog caller Friday afternoon, and the willingness of two distillers of illicit liquor to risk pneumonia in the icy waters of the St. Francis river combined to frustrate the efforts of internal revenue agents to arrest the suspects.

A guard stationed near the 50-barrel outfit lifted his voice after the manner of hog callers, and two operators of the still struck out for the tall and uncut, headed straight for the river, and were crawling out on the other bank when the posse of federal men reached the stream. The "revenooers", afraid to risk their health and possible exposure to a shower of buckshot while in the water, chose not to follow. The still and 10 barrels of mash were confiscated and destroyed.

Two days before the federals destroyed one of the largest stills found thus far in this district. The outfit consisted of a 100 gallon still and 15 barrels of mash. There was evidence enough, the agents stated, that their visit surprised the owners in the act of moving. Twenty barrels of mash had been removed.—Poplar Bluff American Republic.

CALVIN HARRIS BAGS TWENTY-POUND BOB CAT

Calvin Harris, of this city, experienced an unexpected thrill last Monday, when, while visiting relatives at Tillman, in Pike township, he was afforded an opportunity of killing a bob cat.

Mr. Harris said his attention was attracted to dogs chasing what he supposed to be a rabbit, and after awaiting some time he decided to take his gun and help them out. After a short wait he was rewarded by sighting what at first appeared to be a goat, jumping through the brambles, but at closer view he decided that the quarry was a bob cat. As the cat made a bound over a low shrub he fired, and the depredation of the 20-pound female bob cat were ended.

Mr. Harris brought his kill to Dexter and donated it to the Greenhead Hunting and Fishing club, to be mounted and placed in their club house, southwest of Dexter.

The place at which this cat was killed would probably be the last place in Stoddard county where a hunter would expect to encounter a bob cat, as this is a thickly settled farming community.—Dexter Messenger.

Mrs. Peck estimates that in the last nine years she has made 40,000 pies, and over 2,000 fried pies for Peck's Cafe. The Cafe owned by Mr. and Mrs. Cruse, is widely known for the good food served, many traveling men making it a point to reach Illmo at meal time. Mrs. Cruse makes a specialty of cocoanut cream pie and the writer would 'walk a mile" any day for one of these delicious pies or any other she makes.—Illmo Jimplicute.

Many Products Successful Due to Art in Blending

THE word "blend" has returned into everyday use now that repeal has restored legal whiskey to wet the American vocal cords. Why it ever dropped into discard is somewhat of a mystery because the American, more than any other type of mortal, has a taste for blends, whether in food, drink, smokes or solider stuff. Seemingly, as the late Frank Munsey used to put it, he likes to combine the best features of each.

Whiskey blenders are the modern alchemists of today producing the finer liquors from matured rye and bourbon stocks.

Steel, the basic product of big business, is a blend, and so is every sauce, every salad, every perfume. Champagne, the American's favorite wine—when he can afford it—is a blend. Usually the still "natural" wine of high quality comes from a single vineyard, a single press, but to produce a great champagne the vintner looks for one quality here, another there, and then mingles his selections so that the deficiencies of one grape may be offset by the virtues of another. By blending various juices he makes a wine that brings out the better qualities of all its component parts.

Nearly all of the finer teas are blends. So are the better coffees sold in the United States. Usually when visiting foreign countries where little care is taken in blending the various types of coffee beans, or where only one quality is used, the American begins to express a nostalgia for home "where a man can get a decent cup of coffee."

In the United States the popular brands of cigarettes also are blends, with the domestic tobacco of Virginia, Maryland, the Carolinas or Kentucky forming a base to which is added the more pungent leaf from Turkey or from Egypt. Some of the tobacco blenders employ molasses to enrich and sweeten the aroma of their cigarettes. On the other side of the Atlantic most Englishmen prefer straight Virginia tobacco, and nothing else, in their cigarettes.

But when it comes to his whiskey and his port, the Briton, both north and south of the Tweed, leans to blends. The best ports and sherries are those in which wines of different ages have been mingled together. Many of the finer Scotch whiskies are produced by blending the output of one distillery with that of another, each blender having his own formula, so that not two brands are likely to taste exactly the same, or to have precisely similar aroma.

The American preference in whiskies before prohibition—and again under repeal—is predominantly for blended ryes and bourbons. In prewar times seventy per cent of the American whiskies on the market were blends. The whiskey from one plant was mixed with the product of another, or whiskey of one age was mingled with an older or younger product, each contributing a distinctive flavor to the whole. To achieve smoothness and fragrance, sherry and neutral spirits were blended with straight whiskey.

Unless it has aged for a number of years, straight whiskey is harsh and fiery. It is the blender's art to eliminate these deficiencies. When repeal arrived there wasn't enough matured straight whiskey in American warehouses to provide even one drink per throat for a thirsty populace. Across the border in Canada are the largest stocks of matured American type ryes and bourbons—many millions of gallons, of which more than 12,000,000 are held by one concern. These whiskies, four years old and more, are being steadily imported into the United States, and used as the basis for blends, which because of their reasonable price and smoothness, are returning to their position as the favorite American drinks.

FIGHTING GASOLINE TAX DIVERSION

The American Road Builder Association recently announced drive against diversion of gasoline and automobile taxes from highway purposes. In support of the drive, the aid of the public, legislative bodies and chambers of commerce will be sought.

The Association contends that gasoline tax diversion—whereby the motorist is made to pay for something he doesn't get—is one of the biggest obstacles to the maintenance of an adequate program of highway construction in this country. In order to give the public the complete facts, the Association plans to gather nation-wide information concerning the amount of gasoline tax funds diverted, and the purpose for which they were used.

It is doubtful if any tax has been so abused as that levied against gasoline. The tax was initiated some twenty years ago in order to make the good roads movement possible. It was predicated on the theory that motorists, who receive the principal benefit from fine highways, would not object to contributing, through the tax, a special fund for their construction and maintenance. The average motorist did not object—he was even eager to pay the tax, believing it to be equitable and just.

So it was—when it was used exclusively for road work. But during recent years more and more states have come to depend upon the gas tax as an inexhaustible source of revenue for the general fund. The tax rate has been upped time and again—and less and less of the revenue has gone to highway departments. As a result, whenever the motorist takes his car out he is forced to pay a special, class tax, much of which is used to defray the cost things which should be paid for by a tax equally affecting all people.

The motorist has stood for this 'tax racket" long enough. It is a pretty safe forecast that he will rally with cheers behind the new drive to use gasoline taxes only for the purpose for which they were originally intended.

CAR STOLEN AT CAPE WRECKED IN 2 HOURS

Two hours after it was reported stolen from a Cape Girardeau Street, Monday morning, a new Chevrolet sedan belonging to H. F. Emerson of Morley was found abandoned on Highway 55 near Diehlstadt.

The automobile had been overturned and badly damaged.

Discovery of the machine was made by a farmer living near the scene of the accident. He called Mr. Emerson's store at Morley to tell of finding the car.

After the car had been parked in Cape Girardeau early Monday morning Mrs. Emerson went into a store. Several minutes later Mr. Emerson followed her, leaving the doors unlocked and the ignition key in the automobile.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in the blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money.

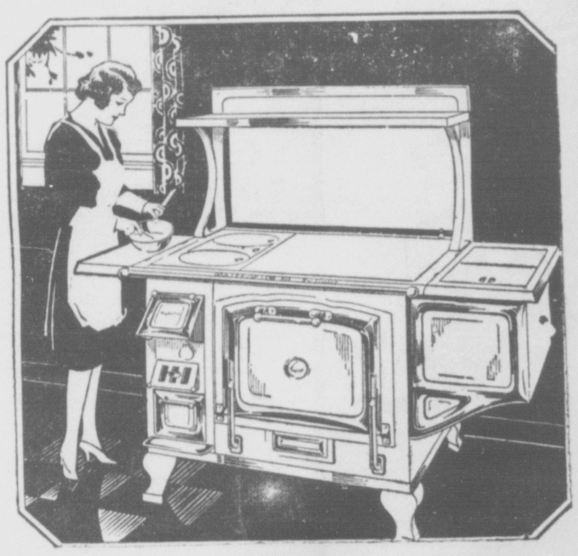
beginning . . . . NEXT MONDAY

A Special Factory Showing of the New All-Enamel Majestic Range will be held in this store next week. A man from the factory will be in attendance to show this new triumph in cooking efficiency, and explain its many interesting details. We specially invite you to come and see for yourself how completely the problem of efficient, convenient home cooking has been solved in Coal and Wood Ranges. It is easy to have a beautiful, cool and modern kitchen without changing over to expensive fuels.



The NEW ALL-ENAMEL Majestic Range

IN IVORY, APPLE GREEN, GRAY, WHITE OR BLUE

No matter what fuel you use, the same amount of heat is always necessary to cook or bake. Cool, clean cooking is never a matter of the fuel, but of the Range. The New Majestic uses the good old reliable fuels that everybody is accustomed to, but it uses them with a new efficiency. It holds the heat inside, around the cooking compartments, instead of wasting it outside, in the room. With it you obtain the utmost in cooking and baking ability, together with real fuel economy and a cool, comfortable kitchen to work in. Results like these have been sought for years in coal ranges, but have only recently been obtained.

Makes a Cool, Clean Kitchen

Every woman knows how an ordinary range "heats up" a kitchen, especially in summer, and how uncomfortable it is to work under such conditions. Yet this is all unnecessary. With a Majestic there is all the difference in the world. The heat is concentrated on the work; the room is comparatively cool; the cleanliness and the convenience and practical features of this modern aid to good housekeeping are equal to those in any range of any type—And you have with it a beautiful Kitchen, too—for the new Majestic is a handsome creation of bright enamel color and gleaming nickel—as easy to keep clean as it is wonderful to work with.

"Pay-as-you-use-it"

You can get one of these modern high-efficiency Ranges for your home so easily! By special arrangement with the Majestic factory we are able to offer a most attractive "pay-as-you-use-it" plan. Just a little down; the balance spread over many months. No interest, no carrying charges, no advance in price! Come in, this Next Week, and let the demonstrator from the factory show you how this beautiful New Majestic will lighten your work, and how easily you can obtain one!

FREE—Next Week only—while the special Majestic Demonstration is going on—a full set of these heavily nickeled copper cooking utensils will be given to every purchaser of a New Majestic Range!

TO HOLD COTTON MEETINGS

Control Association Announces Community Schedule

Every cotton producer in New Madrid county is to be given an opportunity to share in a discussion of the cotton production problems and outlooks for 1935 at a series of community meetings conducted by county and community committeemen of the New Madrid countyCounty Cotton Production Control Association, assisted by the county extension agent and his assistant.

The meetings will all be held on Monday night, November 26—and at the places listed below:

Matthews—Gymnasium.
Canalou—High School.
Kewance—Gymnasium.
New Madrid—Court House.
Lilbourn—City Hall.
Catron—School.
Parma—Gymnasium.
Gideon—High School.
Risco—Gymnasium.
Conran—Masonic Hall.
Portageville—not announced
Morehouse—City Hall.
Marston—School Buliding.
Malden—City Hall.

The meetings will begin promptly at 7:00 o'clock.

At these meetings county and community committeemen will act as leaders in the discussion of the cotton growers' problems. The reasons for the adjustment program, the purpose of the processing tax(and the results accomplished by the associations thus far will be discussed. It is the opinion of the county committeemen, after attendnig the regional conference at New Madrid Tuesday, that many farmers who are familiar with the details of the adjustment contracts and payments are still eager to learn more about the fundamental principles underlying the adjustment program, as well as the current situation and its probable effects on the association's plans for the future.

A reduction of the American cotton supply from 26 million bales in 1932 to 20 million bales at the present time was reported at the Tuesday and Wednesday conferences, yet despite this progress in adjustment there still is a future threat of larger surpluses since the amount of American cotton now being used up each year is only 13 million bales.

The price increase, the committeemen found, was from 6.5 cents in the 1932-33 season the year before the program went into effect, to 9.7 cents in the 1933-34 season the year of the plow-up program, and to 12.5 cents on October 15 of this year.

It is the processing tax which makes possible the adjustment payments, the cotton committeemen's study revealed. This tax is paid by consumers as a part of the price of cotton products they buy, and amounts to an average of 8 cents on a sheet, 3 1-2 cents on a shirt, 8 1-4 cents on overalls and 1 cent on a yard of muslin. The cotton processing tax is 4.2 cents per pound or raw lint.

These and other facts on the adjustment program and the processing tax which supports it will be analyzed by the committeemen men in discussoins with producers in the community meetings.

PARK PROMISES SHARP REVISION OF LIQUOR LAW

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 21—Sweeping revision of the Missouri liquor law will be recommended to the next session of the Legislature, Gov. Guy B. Park said in an address before the Chamber of Commerce here today.

Declaring that the existing law was thoroughly unsatisfactory, the governor outlined three major changes he said he would suggest, as follows:

That the present distinction between 3.2 beer and stronger beer be eliminated and a single license be granted. He said the present dual system was unenforceable.

That the hours of closing be extended as the midnight closing provided in the present law was an open invitation to violation.

That State enforcement officers be given the right of search and seizure and that more teeth be put into the law.

"I am not a prohibitionist", said the Governor. "I never was a prohibitionist, but I believe the liquor law should be amended to protect society and not the liquor interests and that the liquor interests should and must not meddle in the amendments to this law.

"The liquor law was passed hurriedly and is not a good law. It is too lax. It has too few teeth and should be strengthened. The distinction between 3.2 beer and other beer must be done away with. All kinds of beer should come under the same license fee."

To enforce the law which requires that places with licenses to sell only 3.2 beer not sell any beverages of a higher alcoholic content would bankrupt the State because of the number of inspectors required, said the Governor. But that could be remedied, he said, by putting the same tax on both kinds of beer.

"Then", he continued, "there should be an authorization in the amendments permitting officers the right of search and seizure. As the law is written, officers have no right to go into a place and search it.

"Twelve o'clock now is not what 12 o'clock used to be for some of us who have old gray hairs. Now we may go to bed at 9 o'clock when some of the youngsters are just starting out for the evening."

Park said that he believed formulation of a tax program would be the major problem before the Legislature but that he was not ready yet to outline his program.

"If I had my way, and I probably won't" he said, "I would do away with all property taxes in Missouri for State purposes and assume some of the country's burdens."

The Governor said new taxes would have to be found to continue temporarily Missouri's share of the relief burden. The sales tax and liquor levies passed last session have not produced the revenue needed or expected, he said.

Much of the tax load should be taken off both city and rural real estate, Park said, and placed on intangibles which now escape taxation. Some burdens now carried by the counties, such as care of the insane, should be assumed by the State, he said.

Another recommendation made by the Governor was that all schools of higher eductaion in the State be placed under a single board. All teacher's colleges in the State and the School of Mines at Rolla should function as an integral part of the University of Missouri, the Governor declared.

Park also approved a program of consolidatiing counties. This step should not necessarily be taken at once, he said, but it should be done in the future in order to cut down the expense of local government, especially in the poorer sections of the State.

U. S. TO BUY 200,000 ACRES IN MISSOURI

WASHINGTON. NOV. 21—The forest service will acquire on Friday some 200,000 acres of Missouri forest land scattered over about 30 counties, most of them in the Ozarks. This will be added to the approximately 400,000 acres which the Federal Government has already acquired in Missouri for the six forest reservations that were established a year ago.

Altogether the forest service will take over on Friday 700,000 acres in a half dozen Middle-Western states, said to be the largest single acquisition ever made by the service.

This is in line with the general policy of the service which is greatly increasing the national forest reserves. Evnetually a total of 1,200,000 acre will be acquired in Missouri. About half of this has now been added to the national reserve.

These forest reservations beside affording a timber reserve, are small national parks open to the use of the public. If and when Congress makes funds available it is expected that additional CCC camps will be established on these newly acquired lands to build fire lines, trails and shelters.

For the Missouri lands acquired the price is said to have varied between $1 and $3 an acre. Leslie S. Bean, of the forest service, stationed at Rolla, Mo., is in charge of acquisitions in that State.—Post-Dispatch.

TEAMWORK AT A FIRE

In a way totally unexpected by the voters who gave President Roosevelt such a sweeping mandate last week, the election promises to smooth the road to recovery in the United States. For two reasons:

1. The result is so widely interpreted as an indorsement of the President that it should give him a much freer hand. It has so strengthened the executive's position as against legislative blocs that he should be able to continue the Administration's recent progress away from restrictions and regimentation. The unmistakable expression of popular support should enable him to withstand bloc pressure for spending to benefit certain groups, such as the veterans and the silver interests.

2. The election has convinced business men that they can do more for recovery by getting down to work at their own jobs than they can by political agitation against the Administration. Even the most conservative bankers and industrialists now recognize that they have somehow got to get along with this Administration for at least two years more. Alarmist cries now are more likely to retard recovery than to stop Roosevelt. The voting last week showed plainly that the real danger now is that recovery will not come soon enough to forestall demands for jobs or food which would drive the Government into far more radical measures than any we have seen.

Apparently, recognition of these facts has resulted in a genuine and widespread effort, among business leaders, to speed recovery and to co-operate with Washington. It is almost amusing to read headlines such as this :'Business Starts Recovery Drive to Calm Congress'. Hitherto we have always read about Government's efforts to calm business. Those efforts are manifestly continuing. The Administration's earlier moves to relax NRA restrictions are proceeding, as are its somewhat less successful efforts to ease up crop control. And in the last three days four other definite steps have been taken to reassure business.

It is now declared that the job of saving mortgaged homes, which had called for emergency action by the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, can now be handled by private enterprise. And the Treasury has lifted the ban on exports of capital or currency. Since such a ban would be essential to prevent a flight of capital in case of inflation, the Treasury's action is widely regarded as an assurance that the Government has no intention of indulging in frightening monetary measures. In addition, the Housing Administration has shoved ahead by at least two months it plan for accelerating private building under Title 2 of the Housing Act. Latest, and possibly most important, is the comfort Mr. Roosevelt has given business by limiting his immediate program of social security to some form of job insurance.

On the side of business we find the New York Stock Exchange, which was supposed to be virtually ruined by the mere threat of regulation, now bestowing its blessing on the ne wSecurity and Exchange Commission. Richard Whitney, president of the exchange, declares that while some amendments may prove to be necessary, the new act will neither destroy the business of brokers nor disrupt a free and open market. And we find a great many business leaders who not so long ago were both bitter and pessimistic now quite ready to give circulation to current reports of better business.

They are far more in the mood to be encouraged by news that the best holiday business in years is expected for December, and that there was a 40 per cent increase in building permits for October, not only over September, but over October a year ago. Moreover it is reported that industrial leaders are seeking to head off the thirty-hour week, not merely by letters to congressmen but by definite efforts to increase employment in their own plants.

These moves by both business and Government are heartily welcome. There is a familiar story about the two fire companies who tle a house burn down while debating over whose job it was to turn on the water. It is a happy day if Wall Street and Washington have now recognized that the situation caused by the world-wide economic conflagration makes bickering dangerous and co-operation imperative.—Christian Science Monitor.

According to an announcement received here Thursday, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Buckner of Beloit, Wis. former residents of this city, are the proud parents of a baby daughter, born November 11, weighing six pounds 13 1-2 ounces. The little miss has been named Patsy Ruth.
